Our intention is to bring community representatives together to share thoughts on civic issues. We have been thinking of land-use planning issues but other matters could also be of interest. This event is structured around three sessions of breakout group informal discussion. Each of the first two periods of discussion will be preceded by two five-minute speeches. Each speech will explain an issue, why it is worth discussion and various points of view on the subject. After the two speeches, participants will break into small groups to discuss either of the two issues. The third set of small group discussions is less structured – any participant will be invited to flag a topic for discussion and seek to attract others to discuss that issue. The meeting will conclude with a plenary session in which participants are to note briefly new ideas they have gathered in discussion. Looking forward to seeing you on April 23!
