Dear President Biden, Vice President Harris, Majority Leader Schumer, and Speaker Pelosi,

We, the undersigned 102 children and youth groups, respectfully request that you prioritize the inclusion of a pathway to citizenship for immigrant youth, Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA) recipients, Temporary Protected Status (TPS) holders, essential workers, and their families, in the next economic recovery legislation that moves forward via budget reconciliation. As we continue to confront a public health and economic crisis that has claimed more than 500,000 lives and exacerbated deep racial and economic inequities, it is vital that we include long-term protections for immigrant families to secure the health of our nation and to lay the foundation for an equitable recovery.

Over five million children in the United States, the vast majority of whom are U.S. citizens, have a parent who is undocumented or living with precarious status such as DACA or TPS. Undocumented parents have continued to serve in essential roles throughout the pandemic, at great risk to themselves and their families, without access to federal COVID relief and often without access to health care. There is no viable way our country can move forward, prosper, and heal from this pandemic if immigrant families continue to be left behind. Providing parents a pathway to citizenship would enable them to better provide for their children and establish stability for families, free from the fear of separation. The constant toxic stress that children in immigrant families live with every day—unsure if their parents may be detained or deported—has serious consequences for their long-term development. Research also shows that connecting parents to legal status has a positive impact on their children’s wellbeing, including more stable employment opportunities and improved access to health care, nutrition assistance, and income supports that strengthen working families.

An estimated one million children are currently undocumented themselves and millions of young people who entered the country as children--also known as Dreamers--have grown up in the U.S. and face an uncertain future in the country they call home. Providing Dreamers a pathway to citizenship is long overdue and would make it easier for undocumented students to pursue a higher education and achieve their full potential, to the benefit of us all. Of those Dreamers who are beneficiaries of the DACA program, more than 200,000 currently serve our country as essential workers and over a quarter million are parents to U.S. citizen children. A path to citizenship would remove the anxiety DACA beneficiaries and other Dreamers live with every day and allow them to continue to contribute to their communities.

As you continue to work on assembling an economic recovery, jobs and infrastructure package, we strongly urge you to seize the opportunity to include a pathway to citizenship for immigrant youth, DACA recipients, TPS holders, and essential workers, as well as their families, in order to ensure a robust recovery that is inclusive and equitable for everyone regardless of their immigration status. Immigrants and their children are vital to the future of our country - it is time we honor them.

Sincerely,
