Tongue River Water Trail Assessment Complete

SCLT is excited to unveil the Tongue River Water Trail (TRWT) Assessment! The assessment was completed at the direction of SCLT’s Board of Directors and under the guidance of SCLT’s Recreation Work Group. Technical assistance was provided through a grant from the National Park Service’s Rivers Trails and Conservation Assistance Program. The assessment investigates the suitability of local waterways for a potential water trail, examines existing community support for a water trail system, and ultimately identifies a strategic approach to focus future investments toward developing a formally recognized Tongue River Water Trail.

This project would not be possible without SCLT volunteers who spent many hours on the water completing inventories of existing conditions and guiding the direction of the assessment. Thank you!

What is a Water Trail?

A water trail, or blueway, is a delineated water route that uses navigable lakes and streams to connect access sites, resting places, and attractions for users of non-motorized watercraft. While the water trail is primarily designed for use by paddle craft, it can also provide significant recreational value to those who enjoy swimming, fishing, hunting, history, and wildlife viewing.

Our Mission:
To preserve our heritage of open spaces, healthy rivers and creeks, working ranches, wildlife habitat, and vibrant history, while expanding non-motorized recreation opportunities to connect people with the places they love.

Why Designate a Water Trail?

As today’s communities look to engage all ages with healthy outdoor activities and strengthen their local economies, safe navigable waterways are a key piece of the puzzle. The TRWT takes its direction from an overall vision outlined by National, State, and local planning documents.

The assessment features an inventory of existing conditions and identifies an implementation schedule to establish the critical infrastructure needed to create a safe and engaging water trail. We hope that this assessment will be used by many partners to guide future investments improving recreation for our local waterways.

We will host a community river clean-up event this summer to kick off this initiative.

Funding Secured for Tongue River Initiative

Tongue River Initiative (TRI), a partnership between SCLT, The Nature Conservancy NE Wyoming Chapter, and Sheridan County Conservation District, received $1.8 million through the new Regional Conservation Partnership Program (RCP) of the Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS). This funding further bolsters TRI’s capabilities to work with landowners within the Tongue River watershed to improve fish and wildlife habitat, agriculture efficiency and water quality and flow levels in the Tongue River watershed.

The funding will be used on a variety of activities including: protecting the river and creeks from agricultural runoff that has raised bacterial pollution levels; improving passage for fish such as sauger and channel cat; removing invasive Russian olive; providing stock water improvements; stabilizing streambanks and channels; improving irrigation efficiency; and protecting productive agricultural lands from development. Some of these activities have already been underway for years. The RCP funding will allow their continuation and expansion, with the goal of accelerating benefits to both landowners and the watershed.

Excerpt from Section 3 of the assessment detailing current water conditions and elevation.
I had a call a few weeks ago from a landowner in Campbell County who was interested in learning more about conservation easement options for his property near Gillette. It’s not uncommon for us to receive calls from landowners in adjacent counties and while we’re quick to point out that we serve landowners and residents in Sheridan County, we are happy to start them in the right direction. Before this particular caller hung-up, he bemoaned the fact that Campbell County wasn’t lucky enough to have its own local land trust.

However, luck isn’t the reason SCLT is here. Rather, our work is possible because of the vision and investments of community members like you who realize the value that a local land trust brings to a place. Because of your support, SCLT is able to work on your behalf to protect local landscapes and historic places in Sheridan County for the future, while creating new trails and recreation opportunities for those here now.

Nine years after charting unknown waters, the continued sustainability of SCLT is a testament to our community’s foresight. It shows that we remain committed to influencing our future today by investing in projects that pay dividends tomorrow. On behalf of our Board of Directors, I would like to say thank you to the greater Sheridan County community for your continued investment in SCLT. Your support ensures that the place we call home only gets better with time.

Colin Betzler
Executive Director
SCLT's work continues to be made possible through direct support from our community. Over 60% of the funds SCLT received during this past fiscal year were spent directly on developing and managing projects.

I’m pleased to report that SCLT finished Fiscal Year 2014 in a strong financial position, which allows our Board and Staff to continue our work on projects that directly benefit members of our community, as well as the local economy.

FY 2014 Project Highlights

McMeans’ Tongue River Conservation Easement

In the second quarter of the fiscal year, we closed on an 80-acre conservation easement with Mike and Vicky McMeans west of Dayton. This process took over a year, as it was Sheridan County’s first-ever conservation subdivision.

This beautiful property along the Tongue River will remain working ranchland and wildlife habitat forever as a result of this conservation easement. We hope it is the first of many similar projects that combine conservation with smart-growth principles.

Tongue River Initiative Project Development

The Tongue River Initiative (TRI) is a partnership conceptualized by SCLT with The Nature Conservancy and Sheridan County Conservation District. Our goal is to preserve the scenic beauty, ranching heritage, and wildlife habitat of the Tongue River Valley, while also working to improve the water quality of the Tongue River.

This fiscal year, TRI produced the Landowner Resource Guide, which is a compilation of information designed to connect landowners in the valley to entities with funding and technical assistance regarding land management practices. The guide was sent to more than 200 landowners and has led to over a dozen conversations about conservation opportunities on properties in the valley. TRI recently received a grant award of $1.8 million from the National Resource Conservation Service’s Regional Conservation Partnership Program, detailed in our Winter 2015 newsletter.

Red Grade Trails System Project Development

This fiscal year, SCLT announced plans to create a 33-mile trail system on State, Bureau of Land Management (BLM), and US Forest Service (USFS) lands along Red Grade Road.

Many hours were spent meeting with landowners and partners to refine and develop the conceptual trail plan. We also spent a considerable amount of time on-the-ground with a professional trail designer creating a master plan and implementing much of the feedback received from local partners and landowners involved with the project.

Our focused work paid off. This fall we were granted a 25-year State lease for trailhead and trail development and look forward to breaking ground on Phase I in 2015. Meanwhile, planning continues for BLM and USFS phases of the project.

SCLT’s bylaws limit Board Member terms to nine years and as a result, Mark Kinner stepped down this past December. Mark served as President for four years and successfully guided many SCLT projects. He played a pivotal role in shaping the organization into what it is today.

In his own words:
Growing up in Connecticut, it was all too easy to notice farmland that I had worked on being lost to poorly-planned development. For several summers I also worked on a trail crew and saw firsthand the positive impact land conservation and recreational access had on local communities.

“I love the recreation projects SCLT has completed in our community...we’re leaving it a better place for the future.”

These experiences convinced me that I needed to be involved in my own community to shape its future in a positive way. Joining SCLT’s Board in its infancy presented an opportunity to do just that in the place my family and I call home.

SCLT’s bylaws limit Board Member terms to nine years and as a result, Sally Morton stepped down this past December. Sally provided crucial expertise for conservation easements and valuable fundraising support, increasing SCLT’s capacity.

In her own words:
I was fortunate to work for the Wyoming Chapter of The Nature Conservancy for twelve years. In that role I met numerous landowners, policy makers and citizens as we worked to conserve land and water in NE Wyoming, so it was a natural step into the role of SCLT board member.

I love the diversified mission of SCLT. It serves so many in Sheridan County, addressing several focus areas at the same time. Whether you are interested in historic preservation, recreation, or the wildlife and natural beauty of Sheridan County, you are represented by SCLT.

I am proud to have been associated with this organization that has become recognized as a valuable asset in our community. It is the exceptional efforts of the staff and board members and the support of county residents that made this happen. It has been wonderful to be part of the evolution of this organization.

“One of my favorite SCLT projects is the Soldier Ridge Trail. It provides many with the opportunity to be out in the western hills of the county, face to face with the Bighorn Mountains and our magnificent ranch lands.”
