CASE STUDY

How our solutions provided a popular tourist attraction with a secure and reliable print infrastructure.

London Transport Museum explores the story of London and its transport system over the last 200 years. Like many organisations, the London Transport Museum had an extremely fragmented print infrastructure. We are now the single point of contact for London Transport Museum's print fleet.

Based in the Grade II-listed Flower Market building in Covent Garden Piazza. It highlights the powerful link between transport and the growth of modern London, culture and society since 1800.

They care for over 450,000 items across their museum and depot - preserving, researching and acquiring objects to use in their galleries, exhibitions and other activities.

“ Ethos have that “Partnership” mentality which goes a long way above the rest. Over the years we have saved time, money, and resources and sustained a positive relationship that has grown from day one.”

THE CHALLENGE

London Transport Museum had an extremely fragmented print infrastructure.

Over the years, the museum had acquired an overpopulated print fleet which spanned across the Covent Garden Museum and the Acton based Depot.

The devices were a mixture of makes, models and features, therefore London Transport Museum were looking to unify their print fleet with devices which could provide their staff with the ability to perform day-to-day print, scan and copy jobs with ease.

In addition to this, it was important that their print was secure and compliant. There was no audit trail in place, which made it difficult for them to monitor employees print activity or control who could print what and where.

THE MANAGED PRINT SERVICES SOLUTION

Following an audit of London Transport Museum’s print fleet, we found that they would benefit from our Managed Print Services Solution.

We began by rationalising the number of printers, implementing Multifunctional Devices (MFDs) at the museum and depot. We provided equipment with the capacity, duty cycles and functionality to meet staff’s requirements.

18%

These devices were placed under our Managed Print Services Solution to ensure consumables are continually available to them. In addition, London Transport Museum now receive dedicated Account Management, parts, labour, maintenance and Service Level Agreements.

We also installed a Secure Release/Follow-Me Print Software Solution into all devices, meaning that staff must present a key card or passcode before using the device or releasing print jobs. This is a solution which is proven to reduce costs in the long-term.

BENEFITS

Ethos are now the single point of contact for London Transport Museum's print fleet.

The Museum now benefits from a unified fleet of Multifunctional Devices (MFDs) across all their sites which provide improved reliability, robustness, security and accountability.

Under our Managed Print Services Solution, London Transport Museum's operational and financial processes are enhanced thanks to rationalised billing, reduced costs and increased performance.

The Secure Release/Follow-Me Print Software Solution assists London Transport Museum with GDPR compliance and provides them with a full audit trail of print activity. The solution also reduces print waste by up to 18%, boosting the Museum's environmental responsibility.
