

A Checklist

HOW CAN YOU GAIN A REAL-TIME, COMPREHENSIVE VIEW OF YOUR BUSINESS OPERATIONS?

If you're trying to grow your business globally, it's vital that you have a real-time comprehensive view of your business operations.

But if you're relying on a variety of unconnected software systems, it can be difficult to tie these sources of data together for a true view of your organisation, leading to inefficient processes and hindering your decision-making.

A single integrated software platform like NetSuite can provide you with a real-time view of all of your key data, supporting you as you scale your business.

So what should you consider when moving to an integrated software suite? Our handy checklist reveals how a cloud-based platform can help you gain a complete view of your business.

Integration

NetSuite integrates ERP, CRM, HR, e-commerce, project management, and more all on a shared database - so you can follow your processes from start to finish.

Ease of deployment

A cloud-based platform can be deployed easily into new countries; information and process changes can be made affordably and quickly, so everyone can get the information they need without an IT bottleneck, wherever they may be.

Process efficiency

Process automation can be easily delivered on an integrated platform, supporting processes as they flow from department to department and from application to application.

Customisation

NetSuite is infinitely customisable, with the power to customise in the hands of users as well as the IT department, so you can see the parts of your business that you need to.

Disaster recovery and business continuity

NetSuite performs daily hot backups, has secure firewalls, and is based in the cloud, so you can rest assured that all of your vital business data is always recoverable.
