

WHAT

MercuryHouseOne, a concept for a mobile living pod

WHERE

At the 53rd Art exhibition, Biennale of Venice, on the island of San Servolo

WHO

Architecture and Vision

WHY

Cause we live in a world that's always on the move, so the architects wanted to create a space that would refresh the body, mind and spirit.

HOW

Measuring 9 x 4.5m, the pod takes the shape of a drop of water, and recalls its beauty and efficiency, paving the way for a soft and elegant interior. The double-curved exterior shell is made out of ultra-light white Carrara marble pieces with a chrome seam together with large acrylic windows. The light-blue interiors can be configured to meet the needs of different users and video, sound and lighting are integrated inside the habitat to create a unique experience. Power comes from solar cells fitted in the skylights.
