

COPPICE SCHOOL

Coppice Primary School Homework Policy

Introduction

At Coppice Primary School, we believe that homework should allow children to consolidate learning that has taken place in the classroom, whilst also providing opportunities to practise the essential skills which enable children to learn effectively. We feel that, whenever possible, homework should be supported by parents or other adults at home. Homework should also provide opportunities for children to develop a good work ethic and improve their organisational skills through completing tasks to a high standard and handing work in on time. Our aim is that children will enjoy extending their learning, and sharing their successes by showing their families what they are able to do. However, we feel that other activities outside school are equally valuable and, therefore, our homework policy provides guidance which should ensure that homework enhances children's experiences rather than limiting them.

Aims

This policy aims to ensure consistency and progression. It will allow teachers, parents and pupils to have a shared understanding of the homework expectations at Coppice Primary School.

Overview

All children will receive homework. The type of homework, and length of time it is expected to take, changes as children progress through each year group.

Weekly Time Expectations

Reception -15 minutes (plus 5 minutes each day spent on reading and learning tricky words)

Year 1 - 30 minutes (plus 10 minutes each day spent reading and learning spelling rules)

Year 2 - 40 minutes (plus 10 minutes each day spent reading and learning spelling rules)

Years 3 and 4 - 50 minutes (plus 15 minutes each day spent reading and learning spelling rules)

Years 5 and 6 -1 hour (plus 15 minutes each day spent reading and learning spelling rules)

Children will be given a minimum of five nights to complete any homework given. This will include a weekend. This allows children with busy weekends to complete homework over three school nights while children with commitments in the evening can plan time over the weekend to complete work.

MATHS

In Reception, starting in January, children are given a practical activity each week to complete at home with their parents. This is linked to work completed during the week at school. This continues until the end of the Spring Term in Year 1. At this point, children are given a worksheet to complete instead. This is returned to school, marked by the teacher, teaching assistant or by the child and sent back home.

Children continue to receive a worksheet in Year 2 – Year 6. Worksheets allow children to consolidate work completed in class or practise basic essential maths skills such as times tables or number bonds. Some weeks' homework may direct children to a website and ask them to complete specific tasks. For this type of homework, children would be expected to provide feedback on the tasks, writing evaluative comments on the worksheet. If children do not have access to a computer at home or at the local library, time will be given at school during non-teaching time for children to complete the activity.

READING

In Reception, children are given a phonic based book to read, chosen by their teacher. When children are confident, they will be assessed and moved onto the Rigby Star Reading Scheme.

In Year 1, children will have two reading books. One will be based on the phonics taught and the other will be focusing on the comprehension skills.

From Year 2 onwards, children will continue to be given a reading book. This will be chosen by the class teacher until it is felt that children are confident and competent enough readers to choose their own books. This will normally be at some point during Year 4 but may be earlier or later than this, depending on children's ability and confidence. Once children are reading longer books, it may take more than one week to finish the text. They will still be expected to complete the allocated reading time each week. Reading Records will be provided in Reception – Year 4 for children or teachers to write the titles of the book/s sent home each week. Children and/or parents will be able to write a comment for the teacher to read. If they feel it is necessary, teachers will also write comments in the books.

All children from Reception to Year 6 are encouraged to take a book home from one of the school libraries. For older children, this may be their only school reading book but, for other children, this will be an extra book. This is to encourage reading for pleasure and allow children autonomy over choosing books that appeal to them. Children are given the opportunity to change these at least once a week but can keep the book for longer if they have not finished it.

SPELLING

Children will be given a list of words that link to the objective being taught in school. Parents are asked to help their children learn the spellings but there will not be a test each week. This is because the children learn the words for the test but they usually don't remember them and will often not apply them correctly in their writing. Instead, there will be a test each half term that includes spellings from each list that has been sent home throughout the half term. This test will include no more than 20 spellings depending on the year group and the individual child.

Children will also receive a weekly spelling task to support the objectives they have been learning. These tasks will remain at home, to be used for children to prepare for the half termly test.

The week before each test, you will receive a copy of all the words and objectives that have been taught that half term.

Children will be expected to spend some time each day learning their spellings. This is part of the daily reading and spelling time allocation.

OTHER

From Year 1 – Year 6, each child will also be set a homework task which can develop any skill or extend learning in any area of the curriculum.

Tasks may include:

Developing a skill (e.g. cutting out, throwing a ball, threading a needle)

Research on a topic and recording findings through words and pictures

Completing a web-based activity and writing an evaluative comment

Discussing or thinking about a question or issue raised in Circle Time or Philosophy lessons

A worksheet based on a topic being covered

A reading comprehension task

If tasks are practical rather than recorded, children or parents will be asked to make a brief comment about the task to indicate how they got on. This is to ensure that children understand that there is still an expectation for tasks to be completed. Children's work will be acknowledged with a tick, sticker, stamp or brief comment.

For one half-term, each year group will not be set a weekly task. Instead, they will be asked to complete a short research project. Success criteria will be provided which progresses as they go through the school. At the end of the half-term, children will hand their projects in and teachers will select children to receive certificates in assembly for content, presentation and effort. The projects will then be displayed in school for other year groups to look at.

Project work will be marked by teachers before it is returned at the end of the following half-term. Teachers will not write on projects: instead, they will assess against the success criteria on a separate sheet. A general comment will also be written about content, effort and presentation.

Consequences for non-completion of homework

Following parental consultation, the decision has been made that homework at Coppice Primary School should be compulsory. We hope to instil a good work ethic and develop children's organisational skills by encouraging the completion of homework through praise and rewards. However, we feel that there should be consequences if children are not completing homework. Children will always have five nights to complete homework – if homework is not handed in on the required day, children will be expected to give a verbal explanation to their teacher. In order to encourage responsibility, children will be expected to approach their teacher rather than waiting for the teacher to check that all homework has been handed in. A one night extension will then be given and there will be no sanction. (If children persistently hand in homework after the deadline, teachers will discuss the issue at parents' evening.) Should homework not be completed by the following day, children may miss a playtime or lunchtime. Of course, we understand that there will be occasions when, due to extenuating circumstances, homework does not get completed. If this is the case, we ask parents to contact class teachers to arrange for a longer extension.

Holiday Homework

We feel that holiday homework can impact on children's other experiences, making holidays a time when family activities can be overshadowed by the expectation to complete homework. Therefore, no holiday homework will be set for Reception to Year 5, including teacher-chosen reading books. Instead, a list of fun activities and ideas for days out can be found on the school website. These will be entirely optional, intended to provide ideas for extending learning as a family.

Year 6

Year 6 is a very different year for the children. In general, homework guidelines remain as they do for the rest of the school. However, there may be occasions when members of staff feel that extra homework is needed. Year 6 teachers may decide to set extra work, including holiday homework and revision. Please discuss any issues that arise from this with your child's class teacher.

Extra Optional Homework

In general, extra homework will not be set. Children who enjoy completing homework always have the option to spend longer than the allocated time on a task.

Teachers may choose to set optional extra tasks for children who have a particular target to work on. There will be no expectation for this work to be completed and children should decide for themselves whether they want to do the extra task.

If parents feel they would like to complete extra work at home with their child, they are welcome to arrange a meeting with their child's teacher to discuss the type of work which may be beneficial. However, teachers will not provide this work for the children.

Parental Involvement

At Coppice Primary School, we feel that the support given by parents is invaluable. We encourage parents to be involved with children's homework as much as possible. Homework is not used to assess children's capabilities in any subject; therefore, it does not matter if parents help with, check or correct children's work. The emphasis is on moving children's learning forward by improving their understanding. It is helpful for staff to know how children have got on with tasks at home and how much support they required. Therefore, we encourage parents to let us know how their child found the homework. Please see 'Home School Communication' for more information.

Tasks in Reception and Year 1 will often require adult support. Please speak to your child's class teacher if this causes concern. However, from Year 2 onwards, tasks will be set which children should be able to complete, or at least attempt, independently.

We are aware that many methods, particularly in maths, have changed over the years. Teachers will endeavour to make instructions as clear as possible and provide examples when appropriate. Please do not hesitate to check with teachers if you are unsure of the method that your child is expected to use.

Home-School Communication

In KS1, parents often have the opportunity to see teachers at the beginning or the end of each day. Any other concerns about homework can be written into Reading Records or sent to school in a separate letter, if preferred.

In Years 3 and 4, parents can continue to write comments into their child's Reading Record Book and, in Years 5 and 6, all children will be provided with a Home-School Communication Book. This will enable parents to let teachers know how children have got on with tasks and alert teachers if they have any concerns. There will not be an expectation for parents to write in these every week but they will provide an easy way to contact teachers, if required. These will get checked once a week when homework is handed in. Responses to comments made by parents will be added, if required. Parents are also asked to check the book each week.
