

Brief Summary

Deepening drought and water shortage was the dominant theme among the calls to Radio Ergo's independent feedback platform during the week 20-25 March 2021. There was also concern by callers about the continuing destruction by locusts. In addition, there was a notable increase in the number of calls and the level of concern expressed by callers about the spread of COVID19 across the country. The following summarises the calls by theme.

Water crisis – the biggest number of calls on this topic came from across the northern regions of Somaliland, especially Awdal, Togdher, Sanag, and Sool. There was also a high number of calls from Mudug and Galgadud. Several callers from the most northwesterly region of Awdal said drought there was severely affecting people and livestock. One caller said they faced food shortages. A caller in Baki said animals were dying, and a caller in Qoton said they needed water and food aid. In many areas of Togdher callers asked for aid from government and agencies. In Qoryale, a caller said they were overwhelmed by drought and even wild animals were moving into the town searching for food and water. In various parts of Sanag, callers described water scarcity, food shortage, and sick livestock. Many wanted Radio Ergo to convey their pleas for help to authorities and aid agencies, with one caller in Garadag saying Ergo was their 'only voice.' A caller in Sool said they had had no rainfall for eight months and wells were dry. Among several callers from Mudug, two in Jariban said pools and boreholes were empty and goats and cows were weak. In Galinsor, a caller said there was no water nor food and locusts had finished off their food crops. A female caller in an IDP camp in Galkayo said they lacked water and food and hyenas were roaming inside the camp. Several callers across Galgadud asked for urgent water aid, saying animals were sick or dying. There were also calls from Hiran and Gedo. A caller in Beled-hawo described it as a humanitarian crisis with water scarcity, disease, and livestock perishing.

Locusts – locusts continued to cause problems especially in Sanag in the north, as well as in Puntland and parts of central Somalia, with a few calls also from Hiran and L. Shabelle. In Sanag, farmers in El-afweyn said they had lost their farms and lacked machinery or help to continue farming. Callers in Erigabo and Badhan complained about locusts finishing off their crops and grazing land on top of the drought they were experiencing. Callers in various parts of Puntland wanted help controlling the locusts and spoke of contaminated water and affected livestock. Callers in Goldogob and Galkayo, Mudug, said the locusts were back, exacerbating drought and water shortages. Farmers in Hiran (Beletweyne) and L. Shabelle (Kuntuwaaray) called for help in dealing with new waves of locusts.

COVID19 – calls came from many regions including across Somaliland and Puntland, Galmudug, Hiran, Banadir, M. and L. Shabelle, Bay, and Gedo. Callers in Qoryale (Togdher) and Beletweyn (Hiran) wanted to know if the COVID19 vaccine was safe and effective given what they had heard about blood clots and deaths in other countries. A caller in Somaliland said the severe drought and COVID19 required intervention. Two callers in Puntland were concerned that people were ignoring facemasks despite a resurgence of cases. A female caller said sick people refused to quarantine and visited hospitals without wearing masks. Callers in Galkayo, Abudkwak, and Dusamareb complained about the problem of COVID19. In Dhabad (Galgadud), a caller said a lot of residents were devastated by the disease. A caller in Mogadishu said people were dying yet others could not afford facemasks. A caller in an IDP camp in Jowhar said young and old were infected in the camp and they needed water, soap, and facemasks.

Location	Gender	Theme	Date	Remarks
Qoryale Togdher	Male	COVID19	20-03-2021	Hello, my name is A.M.A calling from Qoryale, we have received the COVID19 vaccines (in Somalia) but I heard from the radio that some of the people who were vaccinated died of COVID19 after they got the virus again, so I am asking how effective are the vaccines? Because I don't see the need to take the vaccine.
