

Note to parents:

In the current situation we find ourselves in, we as parents can play a key role in improving our child's academic attainment as well as helping them form good manners.

Regularly talking to your child about their learning and helping them through the process, will greatly increase the child's development and progress.

Few pointers on how to help your child at home:

- Sabak: ensure your child practises their sabak and all types of learning which we are covering in class, to the best of their ability.
- Cleanliness: Habituate proper bathroom use and emphasise the need to keep themselves and their clothes clean.
- Family: Emphasise the importance of brotherhood/sisterhood in Islam.
- Love: Love for the prophet ﷺ and the companions: discuss the reasons why we love the prophet ﷺ and introduce personalities from amongst the companions.
- Salah: It is important that the 5 daily prayers are observed/copied at this age. The habit of praying should be strengthened by performing the Sunnah and witr prayers as well.
- Wudhu: observe your child performing wudhu, ensuring that they perform it with the essential acts of wudhu.
- Fasting: the child should be encouraged and helped to fast from this age. Parents should look to manage and set targets, taking into account the child's ability, health as well as the length of fasting.

REVISION NOTES

The 5 pillars of Islam:

- Shahadah (faith)
- Salah (namaz)
- Sawm (fasting)
- Zakah (charity)
- Hajj (pilgrimage)

The 6 articles of faith:

- I believe in Allah
- I believe in Angels
- I believe in His Books
- I believe in His Messengers
- I believe in the last day
- I believe in destiny