“From the Course”

Things have certainly kicked into high gear at Lone Pine. The turf has greened up and is growing at a rapid pace. The past few weeks we have dedicated almost all of our time and effort to keeping up with the mowing. We have also taken some time to continue improving bunkers. The greenside traps on 8 are complete and I think they are a great improvement. Work on #2 has begun with the bunker behind the green completed and the middle bunker ready for new sand to be added. In the next couple of weeks, we will have all of #2 finished. After completing #2, we will focus on getting the other bunkers edged and ready for the golf season.

See you on the course!

WELCOME

“From the Kitchen”

Hello,

May Day, the celebration of rebirth and new beginnings. As we all know, no winter lasts forever and no spring skips its turn and will always produce sun shining on the rain or, if you prefer, rain falling on the sunshine. May Day is celebrated around the world. Some countries celebrate the occasion much more diligently than others. Here in the U.S., not so much. But, May produces one celebration that everybody in the U.S. celebrates, that is “Mother’s Day.” Just the mention of that floats back memories. I know my mom had a great deal of trouble with me, but I think she enjoyed it. Life was never boring with me around. As an example, when I was seven, I ran out of the house, and when I got halfway in the street my mom saw a car and yelled for me to come back. As I turned around, the car hit me and dragged me five houses down the road. I fractured my collarbone. I think her heart skipped a beat that day. But, she laughs about it now. Most of us have fond memories of food from our childhood. Whether it was mom’s lasagna or her homemade chocolate birthday cake (which I still receive today). Food has a way of transporting us back to the past. With that in mind, the crew and I have compiled a menu that should provide some memories with mom. I hope all of you can join us in that celebration.

And, finally, I find it ironic that the month of tax begins with April Fool’s Day and ends with cries of May Day (is it celebration or cries for help....you pick).

To All, Take Care,

Duane Steiniweg—Chef
