I want to start by thanking everyone for such a wonderful season. Your patronage to the club is what allows us to continue to improve the service and conditions of the course and facility. Lone Pine truly is a special place with a lot of plans that are taking shape which lay the groundwork to continue improvements for the future.

Being members, you should grow to expect more from the service we provide you. Our goal this year will be to provide the “Lone Pine Experience” service that rivals that of the facilities we hold so highly in the area while maintaining our position as the best private club value in the area.

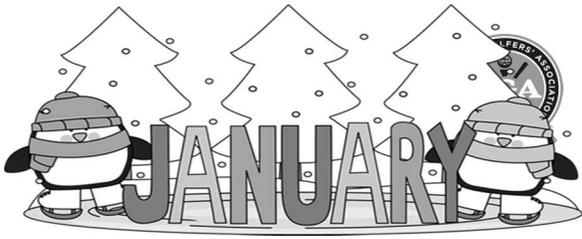

We would like to take this opportunity to introduce to you our new Golf Pro, Michael Stone, who will be joining our team on January 7. Some of our members might remember Michael, as he did his summer internship at Lone Pine Golf Club during our 2013 season. Please come in and welcome him back.

The dates for our 2019 Golf Events Calendar are set; however, they will be reviewed and finalized by our new Golf Pro in January. It will be ready to send with our February newsletter so you can save the dates to play in your favorite events.

We look forward to seeing you at the Club and on the course when the weather breaks. Stay warm and keep thinking about Spring!

BANDITS NEWS

I hope that everyone has had a wonderful and happy holiday season. I look for the same in the upcoming golf season. All of us that winter in western Pennsylvania hope that the groundhog does not see his shadow and we can have some nice March golfing weather. That brings me to the fact that it is not too early to become a Bandit. Even though the official Bandit sign-up is at our annual breakfast meeting in April, I look to have as many as possible registered and ready to golf earlier. Contact me or Frank Dobbin with any questions you may have about this great group. The Bandit's membership is so diversified that any golfer with any golfer handicap is welcome. Please have a safe winter and I hope to see you in the Spring.

Rick Christy, Bandit

“From the Kitchen”

Hello,

“Twenty years now, where did they go, twenty years I don’t know, I sit and I wonder some time where they’ve gone”. If Bob Seger had released this hit recently, I believe it would have been 40 years. At least it is for me.

January the month that is synonymous with reflection. Something we all do in some manner. I think Dickens’ “A Christmas Carol” is a brilliant illustration of human reflection. The Past, Present, and Future. For me the past is usually memories. The best of which is observing someone doing something I have done. Example, this past spring I found myself on Laurel Hill Creek. On the opposite side of the creek was a young boy about 9 or 10 years old. He hooked a nice trout approximately 17-18 inches. I watched as he fought and brought it to himself, then was able to net it. He promptly ran out of the stream with trout in tow, to show it off to his family. Just as I did so many years earlier.

The present and future, I tend to muddle them together. I accept the present to be the year before and the year after, the actual time. Such as I will ponder what went right and what went wrong on the previous years, golf events, weddings and all work related matters. Also I will look at my present state of affairs. Both private and professional. For instance, at work, do I and the company’s administration have the same goals and ideas, or am I where I wish to be financially? And other such company matters or the private side. At this time it all pretty much deals with the restoration of the old farm house I bought. As for the future, well it all deals with the final chapter of my life.

January brings forth the new beginnings of sorts. It starts with contacting brokers and researching the new companies they represent. Searching for new products, arranging for samples and testing them. To see how they might fit in the creating and or revising existing menus.

Receiving seed catalogs and selecting this years vegetables. Of course looking forward to meeting the new golf pro, so we can start to plan 2019’s Golf events. Planning this year’s wedding season with our new coordinator Artie and many other activities. So you see January always starts a string of new things.

And in closing, though a twist of fate, I will be retiring near that creek I mentioned earlier.

To all take care
