Events

XXII Annual Inflation Targeting Conference of the Banco Central do Brasil - Call for Papers

General information

Location: Rio de Janeiro – May 20-22, 2020
Date: 05/20/2020 05:00 - 05/22/2020 05:00
CALL FOR PAPERS

Submission Deadline: March 16, 2020

The Banco Central do Brasil invites submissions to its XXII Annual Inflation Targeting Conference, which will be held in Rio de Janeiro on March 20-22, 2020.

The Conference brings together researchers from academia, central banks and multilateral institutions as well as private sector specialists. The Conference considers papers relating to all areas of monetary economics, such as monetary policy, inflation targeting, central bank communication, forecasting, modelling, and related areas, such as fiscal policy, labor economics and international economics.

The 2020 program will include presentations and discussions of selected articles from this Call for Papers, as well as invited lecturers. The Conference will have academic sessions on the first two days and policy-oriented sessions on the third day, when the event is open for the public with the presence of the Governor and Deputy Governors of the Banco Central do Brasil and private sector specialists.

Important Dates:

- Deadline for paper submission: March 16, 2020
- Acceptance confirmation date: March 30, 2020
- Attendance confirmation deadline: April 3, 2020
- Conference dates: May 20-22, 2020

Paper Submission Procedures:

Authors should submit PDF papers using Conference Maker (https://editorialexpress.com/cgi-bin/conference/list:conf5.cgi) by March 16, 2020.

Articles must:

- Be complete
- Be written either in English or Portuguese
- Have a cover page, with author(s) information: affiliation and e-mail address
- Have an abstract, key-words and JEL classification codes
- Be presented in English, if selected

There is no submission fee.

Funding:

The Banco Central do Brasil will cover travel (economy class), hotel expenses (up to three nights in a hotel chosen by the organizers) and transportation costs to and from the airport and to and from the event for one author per paper selected for the Conference. There will be no reimbursement of any costs incurred while travelling to participate in the Conference. For international participants, the departing flight must leave from the major airport nearest affiliated institution.

Additional Information:

1. To make the discussions more fruitful, it is expected that paper presenters will also discuss a paper of the Conference.

2. Banco Central do Brasil will post the selected articles in the event website, without damage to the authors’ intellectual rights, unless otherwise noted.

3. Further clarifications on this Call for Papers can be requested by e-mail: bcbconference2020@bcb.gov.br. Previous editions of the Annual Inflation Targeting Conference can be checked at https://www.bcb.gov.br/en/about/events.