National Summer Learning Week is July 8-13. Go celebrate! Stop in the @villagelearningplace to sign up for a library card or use the one you already have to check out a book! @SmarterSummers

A 2015 @NWEA study found that students lose nearly 20% of their school-year gains in reading and 27% of their school-year gains in math the summer after third grade. Summer learning loss percentages were also shown to increase as students advance through middle school. LINK Summer at the @villagelearningplace prepares youth for success by providing academic instruction, arts opportunities, and social-emotional support during the summer. Many students write their first poem, build their first robot, or see the Chesapeake Bay for the first time during LINK Summer. Last year, 96% of students maintained or improved their academic skills while enrolled in the program. Learn more: <https://bit.ly/31V6GEJ>. #SummerLearningWeek @SmarterSummers

The House and Senate recently began work on their FY20 budget bills, showing strong support for 21st Century Community Learning Centers and other key funding that supports summer programs. Federal funding for out-of-school time provides programs like LINK Summer at the @villagelearningplace the resources needed to uplift our youth. The Trump Administration proposal once again eliminates many education funding programs, but you can call on Congress to support these programs!
