

boc network
What's your next step?
Business Outreach Center Network

eliminating racism
empowering women
ywca
brooklyn

GO GABBY BOOKKEEPING

Money Talks

Thursday, October 18, 2018

30 Third Ave Brooklyn, NY 11217

YWCA Brooklyn Community Room @ 10:00am - 12:00pm

&

Thursday, November 1, 2018

30 Third Ave Brooklyn, NY 11217

YWCA Brooklyn Community Room @ 6:00pm - 8:00pm

The Money Talks workshop is for anyone who does not feel empowered regarding their personal finances. Let's face it; many of us don't like talking about our money business. Yet, when it comes to personal finance management, what we say on the inside heavily impacts the results that show up on the outside.

In this workshop each person will receive the tools they need to be inspired and take action with their personal finances.

During this workshop you will:

- Discover that what you say "about" money directly impacts the results you have with money.
- Have an opportunity to create a new context for your own "Money Talk"
- Be guided through a simple five step action plan for enhancing your money management practices.
- Create an accountability structure that will support you in completing your five-step action plan and provide lasting freedom and power around your personal money management.
- Get a sneak peak of my workshop about relationships and worth [Love Counts] which illustrates how our relationship with money parallels our relationships with our loved ones.

The speaker, Gabriella Callender is the owner of Go Gabby Bookkeeping LLC, a bookkeeping and business consulting company geared towards empowering women business owners. Gabriella is also a leadership training professional, public speaker and performance artist. She wears multiple hats, all for one purpose: to inspire others to fulfill their dreams. www.gogabbybookkeeping.com

To Register: Please send in your full name, email address, and phone number to wbc@bocnet.org

This event is made possible because of the generous support of the YWCA Brooklyn

