

Worship Exploring

- What is the need that brought you to church? If you don't attend again, will that need go away?
- Corporate worship helps us to refocus our preoccupations with our personal needs, problems, and feelings in order to focus on the attributes and acts of the triune God. This is a healthy and refreshing recalibration each week. – Paul E. Engel
- Corporate worship helps to prepare us for heaven by transcending the transitory concerns that weigh us down. If God desires that we spend eternity in the new heaven and earth, it's good to experience a small foretaste each Sunday. – Paul E. Engel
- Corporate worship helps us to receive fresh biblical preaching that equips us to face the upcoming week with a biblical world and life view. God speaks forcefully in a corporate setting as his anointed servants open the Word for us. – Paul E. Engel
- Corporate worship spiritually nourishes us as we eat and drink at the Lord's table. What we see and taste around the table is more nourishing than a tasty steak dinner. – Paul E. Engel
- Corporate worship touches us at the deepest level as God reveals his presence in worship in a way that doesn't occur in private. Why would a believer relegate Sunday worship to be an optional activity that can be easily replaced by a "more important" activities? – Paul E. Engel
- Ask the person who brought you or one who greeted you, what they love about the church.
- Once we decide to follow Jesus, we need to learn the path to discipleship. The Journey is an intentional plan for discipleship that provides a purposeful process for maturing in Christ.
- Hide God's word in your heart. Start with memorizing this verse.
Romans 3:23 "Everyone has sinned. No one measures up to God's glory."
- Try a simple prayer. Don't worry about the words, just intentionally start a conversation with God.
