

Tussey Mountain Alpine Racing Team (TMART)

Here are the details of the hotels that the team uses for each race. Each family is responsible for making their own room reservation. We do not reserve room blocks since it is possible to get the same pricing direct with the hotels or online, particularly if you have AAA membership. We use the Hampton Inn hotel chain wherever possible, if you are not a Hilton HHonors member, it is worth signing up on line (<http://hhonors3.hilton.com/en/index.html>) before making your bookings since you will earn points for each hotel stay and will eventually earn enough for a free room night. Of course booking the team hotel is entirely optional, but it does make the trip more fun for both racers and parents.

First time racers - What to expect

The team members check into the hotel the night prior to each race, this enables us to travel to the vicinity of the race in the afternoon/evening prior to the race. Often, families arrange to go out and eat together at a nearby restaurant, some people arrive later. However, a feature of the Hampton Inns, is that their lobby area is usually large and has seating for people to hang out and chat. Racers and adults usually take advantage of this and the evening in the lobby before the race is a great team building opportunity. The Hampton Inns do not have a bar, so beverage arrangements are BYOB.

Race mornings are early starts, race check-in usually commences around 7 am, so we get up early and take advantage of the free breakfast provided at the Hampton Inns before heading off to the mountain.

The table below provides the race and hotel details, please make your hotel bookings asap. Remember, if you are not sure if you will definitely go to the race, it is best to book the room and cancel within the free cancellation deadline (check what this is with each hotel as you make the booking) if you end up deciding not to go.
