

Full Bio

Chris Halaschek is an engineer and entrepreneur with a background in machine learning, security and finance. Currently, he is VP Engineering at Pindrop where he leads their voice authentication product line. Prior to Pindrop, Chris was CTO at several companies including Clados, a fintech startup focused on infrastructure for investment research and portfolio management. He is also an active advisor to early stage companies working on AI, distributed systems and blockchain technology.

Chris holds a Ph.D. in Computer Science from the University of Maryland, College Park and additionally earned his M.S. and B.S. in Computer Science from the University of Georgia.