Legacy Scholarship

LEONA GRINER

APPLICATION PERIOD:

January 3 through March 27, 2020

SCHOLARSHIP AMOUNT:

$500.00

All applications must be received by the High Desert Community Foundation no later than 5pm, March 27, 2020. Late or incomplete applications may not be considered by the Committee.

Prior to submitting your application, please read carefully the eligibility requirements for applying for the LEONA GRINER DVL LEGACY SCHOLARSHIP at www.dvlproject.com, and the guidelines for writing the Essay which are included with this application.

For this Griner Legacy Scholarship, student applicants will demonstrate talent in the visual arts including sculpture, painting and drawing and a strong interest in the cultural environment of the High Desert. Because Ms. Griner loved the native plants of the desert and often created art from “found objects,” student art work which includes native plants, rocks and wood of the High Desert, as well as metals, glass and wires will be of special interest to the Selection Committee.

While much of the artwork created by Ms Griner is in the hands of private collectors or has been lost, applicants can find similar inspiration in the works of such artists as Betye Saar, Noah Purifoy (see especially the “Noah Purifoy Outdoor Desert Art Museum” in Joshua Tree, California), John Outterbridge, Marcel Duchamp, and Jasper Johns, as notable examples of “found” or “assemblage” art.

Essay

As part of the application for the Griner Scholarship, applicants are required to write an original essay. (Note: you are cautioned against simply “recycling” personal essays used for college applications or other scholarships.) In 300 typed words or less, describe the influences on your creative works of art or demonstrated interest in the arts or the cultural environment of the High Desert. These influences—positive or negative: : can be an instructor, another artist, family member, an event, or other sources. Your essay should provide insight into your current work and your expectations for future study and career choices.

Your essay will be accompanied by a color photo of your art work (do not submit the actual artwork). For graphic artists, a replica of the graphic arts product can be an example such as that produced for a theater program, a book cover, magazine article, graphic novel or illustration for cartoon collections.

After you have read the brief description here of Ms. Griner, the Legacy Honoree, complete the application and combine it with the other required materials for submission and mail it to the Committee:

Leona Griner
February 19, 1932--September 8, 2012

Leona “Lee” Griner was a true child of the High Desert. As a young girl, she moved with her family from Pasadena to the High Desert in 1938. She delighted in exploring the desert with her brothers first in the Lucerne Valley, and later in the Bell Mountain area of Victorville where she carved her name on many boulders.

Leona and her older brother were horseback riders. Living in proximity to the Murray Dude Ranch, the first California Dude Ranch open to Blacks, she was delighted to demonstrate her trick riding skills to the celebrity guests of the Murray Ranch. She so impressed the owners of the Murray ranch with her poise, maturity and penmanship, Mrs. Murray hired a twelve year old Lee to be her secretary.

In the closely knit Bell Mountain community, Leona lived among neighbors—farmers, miners, artisans—who influenced and supported her creativity. She became an artist who worked with native plants, rocks and wood, “found” objects and “assemblages.” Lee learned to work with glass from her father, and she would study metallurgy in high school. She attended college in Pasadena for one year before returning to Bell Mountain.

Her works in glass and ceramics gained the attention and admiration of collectors throughout the Victor Valley and Southern California.
