President's Message

February 2018

Dear Members,

Whew, I am glad 2017 is over! It seemed that the struggles to maintain our program get harder and harder every year. Many times we consider giving in, but then who would help these wonderful Curly Horses except people like us who really care about what happens to this breed?

I hope that our Members have the resolve to stay the course and enjoy their horses as much as they can in the time that they grace our lives. Not only do Curlies enrich their owner’s lives, but also people who are just learning about the breed. Therapy groups, older generations who want to get involved with horses but cannot keep a horse, younger kids with their parents on the weekends, neighbors interested in looking are what will be a driving force in determining the direction as our Curly breed continues to develop.

I understand that a Curly gene has been found by Dr. Gus Cothran in collaboration with French studies. We at the ABC Registry acknowledge the time and effort that was put into finding this gene. At this time it seems that it is not the only one out there, just the tip of the iceberg so to say. If our Members have any questions concerning this study please contact our office and we can hopefully give you answers to your questions.

Our Convention Conference Call was in October of 2017 and the minutes are published in this Curly Cue issue. Please contact your district Representative if you need an explanation on the New Curly Coat book that has been implemented. Our next Convention will be held by Diane Mitchell in Texas, so start saving up so you can make it and enjoy the comradery of Curly horse people.

Best Curly Wishes to All,

Joan Olson ABC President

The 47th Annual Membership Meeting (Conference Call) of the American Bashkir Curly Registry 10/7/2017

The meeting was called to order by President Joan Olson at 2:07pm EST.

Joan welcomed everyone to the meeting, especially the members and non-member guests who called in.

Everyone confirmed that they received and read their meeting agenda packets and were ready to begin.

Approval of 2016 Convention Meeting Minutes

Joan asked if anyone had any questions about or corrections to the 2016 minutes. There were no questions, comments, or corrections. A motion was made and seconded to accept and approve the minutes, and the motion was passed.

Approval of 2017 Treasurer’s Report

Melinda Martino referred everyone to the Treasurer’s report in their packets, which was up to date as of 9/30/2017. There were no questions. A motion was made and seconded to approve the Treasurer’s report as presented, and the motion was passed.

District Reports

There were no questions or comments regarding the District reports

Committee Reports

There were no questions or comments regarding the Committee reports

Election Report

Joan Olson made a motion to accept the board members currently in office, as there were no new applications for the districts that came up for election this year. A motion was made to accept the current slate of officers and seconded, and the motion was passed.

Old Business

Western Dressage Affiliation

Joan Olson reported that the ABCR is listed on their affiliation page with a blurb about Curlies. Joan reported that she is looking at hosting a Western Dressage clinic or two at her facility in Reno, NV next year to help promote Curlies in Western Dressage.

Junior Curly Ambassador

Cheri Hubbell-Thaut, mother of the current International Curly Horse Ambassador, Sarah Taut, gave a report on what Sarah and Twiz have been doing this year. The Curly Ambassador program began just 3 years ago, and Sarah was chosen as the first Curly Horse Ambassador as a way to get the word out about Curlies. So far this year, Sarah and Twiz have attended 23 gymkhana’s, a "Think Like a Queen" clinic, 7 parades, 4 Grand Entries at PRCA rodeos (with 2400 people in attendance at each), and Royalty signings. They’ve been featured in the Curly Cues, and will be featured in an upcoming issue of Young Rider Magazine. Sarah and Twiz have also helped with Rascal Rodeo for special needs kids. Last winter, Friends of Curlies, the organization that started the Curly Ambassador program, appointed an American Ambassador as well as an Aussie Ambassador. The vision for the future is to promote the Curly horse so much that there will not be an option for these horses to be seen in the slaughter pens any more. This is such an amazing breed that they should be in high demand, but since they’re still relatively unknown, sometimes it’s hard to even give them away. This group wants to change that!
New Business

Virtual Office

Melinda Martino reported that the Kentucky office is officially closed, and we now are operating as a virtual office. The new mailing address and office phone numbers are listed on the ABCR web page. The paper files are now being stored in Reno, Nevada and all the files are also stored on google drive. Melinda retained the old scrapbooks that were assembled when the office was located in Ely, NV and is working on restoring them. A question was asked about having a page on the website to display a number of these old photos, and Joan Olson will get that set up.

Discussion/Vote on Adding a Coat Book

At the 2016 Convention there was discussion about what we could do about keeping track of rescue Curly horses. The Registry started by offering DNA testing to try and identify parentage and/or relatives of these horses. If the DNA showed there was Curly heritage, but no identifiable parents, the Registry would present the owner with a Certificate of Acknowledgement of that information. But we couldn’t register these horses. The Board discussed this several times since the Convention and decided to put a vote to the membership about creating a new book so that these horses could be registered. This book would be for any Curly coated horse with no verifiable registered Curly parents. These horses and any curly coated offspring would not move out of this book. After discussion, a motion was made to create a Curly Coat Book, it was seconded, and the motion passed. The current registration process will apply for this coat book. One of the guest participants on the Convention call has a mini-Curly and was very happy that she will now be able to register her horse!

Membership Survey

Angie Gaines reported that this was a free online survey of 10 questions that we were able to present to the membership to get some feedback. Two of the suggestions included a request for more and better communication from the Registry as well as a request to register horses that aren’t currently eligible. The survey provided some good feedback, even with its limitations. If anyone would like more information about the survey and its results, you may contact Angie Gaines (angie@goldencurlsranch.com).

Results of Horse & Rider Awards

Grand Champion Performance: Elana Oakes with Sparta Curl
Reserve Champion Performance: Diane Mitchell with Grady
Frequent Rider Champion: Diane Mitchell
Frequent Rider Reserve Champion: Diane Mitchell

Angie Gaines asked about adding a Driving Category to the Awards Program. After some discussion, a new category called Driving Versatility will be added for 2018. This information will be added to the website.

Joan Olson sponsored a driving award for a participant in a driving show this past summer and will contact her about submitting an article and pictures for the Curly Cues to promote the new category. Melinda Martino will contact Betsy Lirakis about a driving article and pictures as well.

Convention 2018

Diane Mitchell offered to host the 48th Annual Convention in 2018 in Texas. Once the date is selected, it will be posted on the website. A question was asked about the possibility of calling in for those who could not attend in person. We will look into the feasibility of doing this.

A Motion was made to adjourn and seconded. The meeting adjourned at 2:13 pm EST.
ROSE PARADE 2002
By Marni Malet

My alarm went off at 3:00 AM. A few minutes later, I was headed for the airport, barely able to believe that I was headed for my second ride in the Rose Parade. I had the time of my life the year before but, if you refer to the February, 2001 issue of Curly Cues, you will see that it wasn’t without mishap.

That time, my plane was 6 hours late and I missed most of the Equestrian Reception. At the parade staging area, in a last-ditch effort to get to a Sani-can, I accidentally jumped into a pile of fresh manure that clung to my boots and the fringe on my chaps, then transferred to my stirrups and my fancy fringed gloves. Then my mount, Daisy, walked most of the parade backward so she could keep an eye on the evil snowman float. Yeah, okay, so I had a few problems.

Thankfully, Jim and Ann Washington are very forgiving and offered me a second opportunity. I was determined that this time we would be perfect.

I arrived in LA a full nine hours before the reception was to start. I took a taxi to my motel, checked in, and waited, my stomach full of butterflies. Victor and Trina Espinosa checked in a couple of hours after I did and it was great to see them again! I hitched a ride with them to the reception. I was all gussied up, too, and looked real purdy.

The invitation had said Costume or dressy Western. We chose not to wear our parade outfits because we didn’t want to risk getting them dirty.

Just like last year, the costumes at the reception were fantastic. There was an open bar, a buffet dinner, dancing to live music, and a cowboy poet named Festus, who was a real character. I talked to him later in the evening and asked if he knew Sunny Martin. Silly question! Of course he knew her! Well, from then on we were best buddies. Then there was Ron, the fireman, who was a great dancer—kinds liked him. The John Wayne double was fun, too. I even ran into a couple of people who remembered me from last year, though they didn’t say if that was a good thing. Yup, it was a great party! :)

After that it was three full days of working horses, parading, cleaning tack, shampooing horses - you know the drill. We did take time out for group activities, though. Everyone’s favorite has to be the annual trip to The Broken Horn. Imagine a Costco for horse and rider. A person could spend the whole day in there. I don’t think any of us left empty-handed, but Trina Espinosa came out the biggest spender. She bought a new show saddle for Doc, her pintos stud. Boy, was it sharp! We also bought some Happy Ears for Daisy—yarn pom-poms that go into a horse’s ears to muffle loud sounds. We hoped these would help Daisy cope with the loud bands and jets flying overhead.

We took most of our meals together, including our New Year’s Eve dinner one day early. We went to a great log restaurant with piles of snow on the roof. Okay, it was white cement— but it looked great. We were handed bowls of peanuts as we entered and were ushered to some benches to wait for our table. My co-riders dove into their peanuts and began throwing the shells all over the floor! I was so horrified, I moved to a bench on the other side of the room. After silently observing, I concluded it was some sort of Southern Californian tradition. The entire floor was covered with shells. Little kids were stomping them into sawdust, and the behavior appeared to be perfectly acceptable. Dumbfounded, I took a picture of the floor.

Soon parade day was upon us. We had our final practice, and we all knew our places. We were familiar with Jim’s hand signals and knew how to change gracefully from columns of three to columns of two. The horses had been scrubbed clean, the tack was spotless, and everyone knew not to eat or drink anything after midnight.

That meant we faced a 2 ½ hour parade, plus standing time, without a potty break!

We met back at the barn at 1:00 AM on Jan 01. The horses were loaded, then we headed for the parking area in Pasadena. This year we would be at the end of the parade, so we didn’t have to be in the barn until 8:00 AM. That meant we could catch a few hours’ sleep in the trucks and horse trailers. Jeanette and I settled into one truck and actually got a couple of hours’ sleep.

As dawn was breaking, we got up and started preparing the horses. They got yet another brushing, flowers were put in their manes, glitter on their butts, and their hooves were painted. Then we dashed for the dressing rooms to put on our parade outfits. The shirts were stars and stripes—very appropriate after 9/11—but they had actually been chosen prior to that.

Ann had asked us to be ready by 7:00 AM so she could take pictures. When that was done, I was going to give myself a final grooming and hit the Sani-cans, but it didn’t happen. Nope. Instead, they hollered for us to head up the road. I couldn’t believe it!

The same thing happened last year! I’m not ready! I thought. Ann stuffed the Happy Ears into Daisy’s ears and off we went.

Winding our way through the streets, past bands and traffic, I noticed that the Happy Ears seemed to be doing the trick. Daisy was doing great. We entered the staging area and sure enough, I saw Sani-cans! I handed Daisy’s reins to Grant and very gracefully dismounted, making sure that I did not land in any manure. The US Marshall’s Mounted Patrol was behind us so I made a point of sashaying past them. They were all watching me. I stood facing three sani-cans—two were occupied, one was vacant. I opened that door and found a totally exposed US Marshall using the facilities. It’s real hard to maintain eye contact at a time like that. In horror, I slammed the door shut and stuttered my apologies. The Posee behind me was in stitches. “It said Vacant”, I mumbled to nobody in particular. A voice from inside said, “It’s okay, the latch is broken”. Thank goodness one of the other “cans” became available before he came out. I jumped into the newly vacated one and hoped the onlookers would all be gone by the time I emerged. I looked longer than was necessary but, alas, there they all stood when I opened the door. They all got a big kick out of it and gave me a little marshall pin. Apparently I was the only one traumatized by the incident. Not mentioning this little mishap to my co-riders, I chucked while I climbed back on Daisy.

We merged into the parade, and this time, I knew the drill. As we turned the first comer, I saw millions of cameras and zillions of people ahead! The adrenaline rush was unbelievable! Even though the audience was already 2 hours into the parade, I was amazed at the energy they still had. People were hollering “Here come the Curly horses!” and “Happy New Year!”. One cameraman positioned himself directly in front of Daisy. I wasn’t sure what he had in mind, but it looked like we would run him down. Do I break formation? I wondered. I can’t! The official pictures are being taken! So I smiled and waved as he disappeared under us somewhere. Later, while watching a video, I realized that he was getting a close up of her coat.

Daisy was handling like a dream, and I was able to sit back and enjoy the experience. The weather was perfect, and so were the horses. What a day!

Occasionally, the parade halted. We took advantage of the time by turning our horses toward the people, striking up conversations, answering questions, and basically promoting the horses. I was playing up to one such group while Daisy protested the delay by shaking her head. Suddenly, one little boy started pointing frantically to the ground under Daisy saying, “You lost something”. I looked down and was horrified to see a Happy Ear staring back at me. That meant that Daisy had half her hearing back! The little boy wanted to know what it was. I told him they were horsy earplugs. The look on his face cracked me up!

About that time we headed back down the street. I’m not sure what happened after that, but I have visions of him taking the Happy Ear to Show and Tell the next day.

After the parade, we untacked the horses, changed clothes and enjoyed our free In and Out burgers—another Southern California ritual. Grant’s parents, Mr. & Mrs. Evenson, dropped me off at the airport on their way home. I was very thankful, as they saved me a ton of money and the hassle of getting a taxi. I was back home in the mountains of Washington State by 10:00 that night. I fell into bed exhausted, having had only 3 hours’ sleep in the previous 40 hours. Would I do it again? In a heartbeat!

Thank you Jim, Ann, and Ingrid for all your hard work, and a special thank you to Jeanette for sharing Daisy with me. And to the US Marshalls……I send my love. :-}

1994 TOURNAMENT OF ROSES PARADE
ABCR CURLY HORSE BREED STANDARDS

BODY CONFORMATION
- A medium size head with well-defined jaw and throatlatch
- Wide set eyes with eyelashes that curl up
- Ears that are short to medium in length with curls inside (ear hair does not totally shed out in the summer)
- A medium length neck, deep at the base of the neck where it joins the base of the shoulder
- Noticeably short back, deep through the girth
- An appearance of a long underline and the belly cut high in the flank
- Heavy boned legs and short cannon bone as compared to the forearm
- Medium withers and a flat croup with a shallow slope to the base of the tail

CURLY CHARACTERISTICS
Body (Fine, soft hair)
- Ringlet (can be several inches long)
- Marcel Wave (deep soft wave in the body coat)
- Crushed Velvet (soft dense pile of curls in body coat)

MANE (EXTRA FINE HAIR)
- Kinky – preferable
- Wavy
- Should shed all or partial in the summer
- Split mane (hangs on both sides of neck)

TAIL
- Ringlets
- Wavy
- Should shed partial at the head of the tail in the summer of some horses may shed tail completely

ABCR provides a fully linked ABCR Curly Horse Studbook ONLINE with more than 8,100 entries and 2,950 pictures including all ABCR horses. These are the features of this database:

1. Fully linked PEDIGREES WITH PICTURES
2. SIBLINGS VIEW: Find full and half siblings of a given ABCR animal AT-A-GLANCE
3. OFFSPRING VIEW
4. VERTICAL PEDIGREES: Vertical pedigrees list full siblings of each horse in the pedigree AT-A-GLANCE, which as a group represent various combinations of their parents’ genes, and are good indicators of the range of possibilities that are likely to be passed on. Using vertical pedigree analysis gives breeders interesting insights e.g. about confirmation or the extreme characteristics that cannot be tracked in a direct manner.
5. REVERSE PEDIGREES: Reverse pedigrees show offspring of the offspring of a given animal.
6. TRIAL MATING: Try out mating’s between ABCR horses and look how the confirmation or other characteristics would match.
7. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION SUCH AS COEFFICIENT OF INBREEDING (COI) AND PEDIGREE QUALITY
8. INDICATION OF DNA AVAILABILITY AND EXTREME CHARACTERISTICS
9. NAME GENERATOR: Generator for horse names based on more than 40 years of ABCR Curly Horse names—always new and fancy combinations, fun guaranteed!
10. ADDITIONAL FEATURES: Advanced Search, Fully scalable between 3 and 8 generations, same ancestors highlighted, enlargeable pictures
Sentimental Journey

A Bit of History --

The more one delves into the history of Curlies, the more fascinating the breed becomes --

For instance -- Sandra Hendrickson of Indianapolis IN sent this info found by Ellen Wells of the Smithsonian Institute in the book "Origins and Methods of Horsebreeding" that notes the following:

(AD 161-180) The Roman studs were often located in places which were to remain famous for horsebreeding in medieval and modern times -- in Asia Minor, ....in Spain, in Sicily, and on the karst lands of Apulia and Calabria in South Italy and Istria in northwest Yugoslavia, where the famous Lipizzaners were to be bred from the late 16th century onwards. North Africa was particularly noted for racehorses, which the Romans called Numidian, and we would describe as 'Barbs' (i.e. from the Berber or Barbary Coast of North Africa). They ran in chariot races, and are illustrated in several mosaics, those of North Africa being noted for the number of horses which are named. We find, for instance, 'Amandus' (Lovely), 'Frunitas' (Delicious), 'Adorandus' (Adorable) and 'Grunitus' (Curly).

So you see, our Curlies are a most ancient breed and we should be very proud to own one!

And -- THANK YOU -- Sandra and Ellen!
