There are solutions ...

if you've experienced any of the following while seeking healthcare:

- Examined while in your wheelchair
- Exam rooms too small to move around in
- Exam tables or exam chairs are too high and can't be lowered, or you are told to bring someone to lift you to access medical equipment
- Long waits or refusal of service because of your disability
- Important information is not given to you in an accessible format
- No qualified sign language interpreter at appointments
- No service animals allowed

Become an empowered, proactive healthcare advocate!

Learn about your legal rights and how to enforce them to become your own patient advocate.

This in-service can also explain to healthcare providers and students how to increase accessibility for patients and clients and inform them of their legal rights.
