

UPDATE: mbloom, Hawaii's First Early-Stage Technology Venture Capital Fund, Closes $10 Million mbloom Fund 1

Marketwired January 21, 2014

KAHULUI, HI--(Marketwired - Jan 21, 2014) - mbloom Ventures LLC, a Maui-based technology fund for Hawaii startups, today announced the close of a $10 million early-stage venture capital fund.

The investment, mbloom Fund 1, is a public-private partnership with Hawaii State Development Corporation (HSDC) and Rosemont Seneca Technology Partners, an East Coast hedge fund.

"We are excited to use mbloom Fund 1 to create economic growth for Hawaii," says mbloom co-founder Arben Kryeziu. "Innovation happens in Hawaii, but many companies leave the island for growth opportunities on the mainland. We want to keep Hawaii startups here, giving them opportunities to develop, connect, and make a mark just like the startups in Silicon Valley."

Kryeziu and partner Nick Bicanic created mbloom after recognizing the need to keep great talent on Maui. With the fund, Kryeziu and Bicanic plan to provide mentorship, strategies, and business networks that nurture and cultivate the success of new Hawaii startups.

The Hawaii community has expressed great support and excitement for mbloom and its potential for success.

"I've long believed that great entrepreneurs and innovators can be found throughout the United States -- and Hawaii is no exception," said Steve Case, chairman and CEO of Revolution. "I congratulate Arben and Nick on the launch of the mbloom fund, marking an important step for building momentum in the Hawaii technology community."
