Fellow Adventure Seekers,

After much deliberation, we have made the difficult yet necessary decision to postpone flights at this time. It is our responsibility to help flatten the curve on the spread of COVID-19 and keep our team, families and passengers as safe as possible. I've spent the past 18 years in the air and as a small business we have every plan in continuing our flight operations when this is over.

Unless otherwise noted, we plan on resuming flights starting April 1st, 2020. We will post updates on our website and social media channels. Thank you for your understanding during these difficult times. We look forward to taking you on a tour of the skies on the other side of this. Stay Safe and Stay Adventurous!

Soft Landings,

Taylor Aldous
