

OKLAHOMA CITY NATIONAL MEMORIAL SITE IS CLOSED

The Oklahoma City National Memorial site is closed to everyone. It was closed last Thursday after the Memorial's Conscience Committee and Executive Committee suggested and approved the closing of the Memorial grounds through the end of April.

Any photography or video must be done on the street from either Robinson or Harvey. We ask that you comply with both the social distancing and the 10-person maximum rules. We cannot have a large crowd of people on either street for public health reasons. It is the main reason we have closed both the Memorial and the Museum. The public's health and safety are our top priority.

The 25th Anniversary Remembrance Ceremony to honor and remember those who were killed, those who survived and those changed forever, has been pre-recorded and can be seen on all Oklahoma TV stations, tomorrow, Sunday, April 19, from 9:00am-10:01am. The program includes 168 seconds of silence and the reading of the names by Family Members, Survivors and First Responders. In addition, the program can be seen on MemorialMuseum.com, the Memorial's Facebook page, C-SPAN, Cox YurView stations in 30 cities across the country, Oklahoman.com, abcnews.go.com/live or listened to on KGOU Radio. For more information go to MemorialMuseum.com/25.

To further reflect and learn on this day, the Memorial Museum has made the onsite mobile app experiences accessible until the site reopens. Users can select from a family video tour, a journalism adventure for students and more.

In addition, we are asking all those changed forever to share their remembrances on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram using #WeRemember. These posts will be shared on the front page of MemorialMuseum.com as we show the remarkable community response 25 years later.
