Good morning, chickadees! If your attempted hot-to-trot moves cause your very ticklish boyfriend to erupt in a fit of giggles, we've got few expert sex tips about touch you'll want to check out.

We asked Dr. Rachel Needle, a Licensed Psychologist, Certified Sex Therapist and longtime friend of Smitten, for some tips on touching dudes who have ticklish tendencies:

"Try a stronger pressure than is being used or experiment with different types of touch and pressures. Some people are always ticklish in certain spots and others are sometimes ticklish in a spot and sometimes not as much."

Thank you Dr. Needle!

Is your partner ticklish? Does he ever start giggling when you two are making out because a tender touch sets off his most ticklish spots? Or maybe you're quite ticklish and you can't help but laugh when he runs his fingers across your body?

P.S. Dr. Needle is on Facebook and you can also follow her on Twitter!
