Dr. Ansley Bacon, Presbyterian Church of Mount Kisco Women's Association member and treasurer, delivered a $2,000 donation check to the Westchester Institute for Human Development (WIHD) on Dec. 18.

The donation will be used to purchase toys for WIHD's child welfare program and laptop computers for its assistive technology program. WIHD creates better futures for people with disabilities and for vulnerable children and their families and caregivers through professional education, comprehensive services and supports, community training and technical assistance and innovative research and information dissemination.

From left: Izel Obermeyer, director, assistive technology program; Dr. Ansley Bacon, PCMK Women's Association (and Harry the dog); Danielle S. Weisberg, director, Child Welfare Services and Children's Advocacy Center; Dr. Susan W. Fox, president and CEO; and Cindy Lopane, director of philanthropy and community engagement.