Applied Combatives Class by Talon Global

Hosted by

Solon Police Department

Course Description

The Applied Combatives Course (AC-1) delivers a skill set which exists between standard subject control and lethal force. It is the last line of options prior to changing everyone's life forever.

More and more police officers and military personnel are turning to Talon Global's Applied Combatives Model because it delivers incredibly effective and useable attributes in an area of training which often is overlooked.

Paradigm Shift

The primary change in perspective will be from the historical, technique-based orientation to a modern science-based orientation. This orientation values adaptation to movement, position, and energy over stock Combatives techniques which are traditionally difficult to apply.

Course Outcomes

Students will learn:

- How to realistically engage with and overwhelm a subject, dominating from the onset
- How to chain reliable techniques, customized to each student, based on their physiology
- How move with and strike a subject while attached to them, a skill rarely considered but representing the truth of how authentic fights occur

Solutions

Graduates will be granted access to videos of all concepts, drills and techniques taught in this course.

This content is available at Talon Global's online Learning Management System (LMS), Force University.
