Training Announcement

Contact Dominance Instructor, Level One Certification Class by Talon Global

Hosted by

The Solon Department

Course Description

The Contact Dominance curriculum is a Subject Control method that is specifically designed with the In-Service Instructor in mind.

More and more instructors are turning to the Contact Dominance model because it resolves the challenges most DT Instructors face; limited time, inconsistent officer motivation, and too many training injuries.

Paradigm Shift

The primary change in perspective will be from a style-based orientation, which favors technical mastery, to a neurological-based orientation, which values adaptation to movement, position, and energy.

Course Outcomes

Students will learn:

- How to realistically choose which techniques to teach based on the time allotted to them
- How to create amazingly efficient lesson plans in 10 minutes or less
- How to develop high functioning, multi-dimensional drills and progress through them safely
- Exactly how to teach the concepts, techniques, and drill threads that we show you

Solutions

Graduates will be granted access to our online Learning Management System, Force University.

Force University includes a tightly edited library of videos of our lectures, drill sequences, and techniques. It also has an index of pdf's, to include our top 8 lesson plans in 2, 4, and 8 our blocks.

Graduates will also have access post-class access to the instructor cadre, to assist them in dealing with challenges specific to their situation or agency.
