

Hans Jorgen Nielsen passed away on December 8, 2013.

He was born December 15th 1931 in Gudme, Denmark to the late Ejner and Gudrun Nielsen. Hans worked as a machinist while studying engineering at Odense Maskinteknikum where he received his bachelors degree.

He moved to the US in 1962 and worked again as a machinist until finding his first engineering job in the states in 1966. He remained in engineering as a machine designer until his retirement.

He married Louise B Oxlund on June 10th 1966 and they remained married until her passing in 1985.

His hobbies consisted of building and working on things for himself, friends and family. He built decks, walls, concrete paths and patios, railings and everything else imaginable at his home in Redwood City CA. He loved helping friends and family fix anything they needed, and truly loved to help people and keep anything mechanical running or improving it as he saw fit. He truly believed in the engineers credo of “ If it isn’t broke, take it apart and fix it anyway”. He also loved to ride his motorcycle and took many long trips for vacation or to visit friends and family.

He was truly loved by friends and family alike. Always known for his kind and helping hand and warm and witty sense of humor he will be truly missed by those who knew him.

He is survived by his two sons, Erik and Lars, his two grandchildren Victoria and Marcus, brother Oluf and sister Nede..

There will be a memorial service followed by his burial and a celebration of life on January 4th at 11AM. It will be held at Crippen and Flynn in Redwood City CA.
