

RELENTLESS MINDS

Title: Internship Opportunity in Media and Journalism

Location: Washington, DC and Northern Virginia Area.

Our Company

In February of 2019 the Relentless Minds podcast was created with the sole mission to inspire people to create the change they desire to see in their own lives and in the world, by sharing examples of those who were. These examples are the stories of people who share a common commitment, and that is that they refuse to accept their current circumstances for what they are, refuse to listen to society when they are told that nothing can be done, and instead they choose to fight for what they believe in..Our main objective with this platform is to inspire people around the world through the use of powerful stories, and to create a unified movement of change makers. We also strive to showcase the world-wide efforts being made on issues that are affecting people everywhere. This isn't just a local news-focused platform, we want to raise awareness on issues including climate change, human rights, mental health, family life, relationships and more.

The reason this is so important is because people everywhere want change and this world is increasingly becoming more in need of it, but not enough people are speaking up and taking action. Our hope is that through the examples of others fighting for the change they believe in, listeners will also become empowered to follow in those same footsteps.

If this is something you feel you would like to be a part of then please read ahead. As of right now, we are in the beginning phases of building up to our vision and your contribution could have a major impact!

Responsibilities and Duties

Search and research individuals that fill the criteria of the guests we seek to interview on the Relentless Minds podcast.

Use the research done on guests to create a compilation of information that will be used to prepare a complete interview guide.

Consolidating research information and preparing key highlights to be used for the interview prep.

Contacting, following up and scheduling guests for interviews. And scheduling at least 2 guests a week.

Write a narrative story for every guest by using the content of the interview once completed to post online and print.

Maintaining social media accounts on Twitter and IG by working with team to create content and releasing this content 3x a week on IG, and participating in daily tweets (tweet posts at first must be approved by host).

Attend local events the team goes to in order to promote the movement at Relentless Minds and be part of the preparation required to set up for these events.

The list above are considered core responsibilities in the internship, but they are not limited to only those if you desire to play a bigger part in supporting our vision and being a significant part of the team.

Requirements and Qualifications

We seek to ideally find an intern who is a student in journalism, media, communications or related academic fields.

We will also consider applications on a case-by-case basis for students outside of these fields.

No prior experience is required, you will receive on-the-job training during your internship.

We are seeking an individual who is able to commit to 15-25 hours a week.

This is a positive and encouraging atmosphere. We seek to find an individual who also shares an optimistic and passionate personality that cares deeply about helping others.

Benefits of the Internship

Compensation: This will be an unpaid internship position. If you are interested in staying on the Relentless Minds team after your internship, then a career opportunity can be reviewed and discussed.

Experience: During your internship you will gain valuable experience in research and application, interviewing methods, business strategy (how to grow a business), entrepreneurialism, communication and networking, social media management, content creation, how to create and run a podcast, writing and journalism, and more.

Network: This position requires you to engage with many incredible people that serve the same mission of making an impact and helping others. This includes professors, program directors, movement leaders, business owners, speakers, journalists and more. This will serve as connections that you can develop and maintain over time that can be later used to help you to progress with your own goals in life.

Credibility: Relentless Minds is a professional and respected platform that will give you credibility due to being part of a well-run and meaningful podcast and company. People believe in what we stand for and we receive a lot of support due to that.

Schedule and Duration

Length of time: 3 months, minimum. The internship can extend past 3 months if the intern desires to continue interning for longer. Opportunities for a career with Relentless Minds can also be reviewed and discussed during internship.

Commitment: We are looking for someone who can commit to 15-25 hours a week and meet in person 1-2x a week to create content and have strategy meetings. Other than this we will remain in contact as needed during the week via call, text and email.
