

GATE Online Interactive Webinar: No edTPA Now What?

Invitation:

Now that the edTPA is no longer a required assessment, many Education Program Providers are scratching their heads trying to decide what might take its place. Join three outstanding panelists in a conversation about possible ways to modify or replace this assessment. We want to hear your questions, ideas and thoughts on this subject, too! All GATE and non-GATE members are welcome to attend this virtual event.

When: Thursday, January 28, 2021, from 1 - 2 pm ET.

Moderator: Don Livingston Ed.D., LaGrange College
President-elect, Georgia Association of Teacher Educators,

Panelists: Winifred Nweke, Ph.D., Clayton State University

Rebekah Ralph Ed.S., LaGrange College

Carla Lynn Tanguay, Ph.D., Georgia State University

How: Secure your spot and register using this link:

Don has been preparing and developing teachers for over 20 years. Committed to improving and protecting teacher preparation in Georgia, Don has been active in many statewide organizations. Don enjoys working with educators to improve schools through action research.

Winifred is an Associate Professor and the Assessment Director in the Department of Teacher Education at Clayton State University. Prior to joining Clayton State, she served as the Coordinator for Research and Evaluation and as an Education Specialist for Georgia Master Teacher Program for the Georgia Professional Standards Commission. Among her research interests are educator workforce supply and demand, candidates' dispositions assessment, and validity and reliability of assessment evidence and instruments.

Rebekah has served LaGrange College as its Instructor of Educational Technology and edTPA coordinator since 2014. Prior to joining the faculty at LaGrange College, Rebekah taught fourth grade at a Title I school. Rebekah participated in the Visibly Better working group at the Center for Education Policy Research (CEPR).

Carla is a Clinical Assistant Professor in the Department of Early Childhood and Elementary Education (ECEE) and the Associate to the Dean for Clinical Practice at Georgia State University. In her current role, she supports all initial teacher preparation programs in the areas of teacher performance assessment and clinical practice. She was a member of the Georgia edTPA Policy & Implementation Advisory Committee supporting Georgia with edTPA implementation and support.
