

Is your company's culture different than the one you set out to create?

Has COVID-19 and remote work created fractures or magnified existing tensions?

Have you had trouble articulating or documenting your corporate culture ideas, despite knowing what you want?

Whether it is due to long-term structural change, or coping with COVID-19 and the new normal of remote work, shifts in a company's culture or mission can have serious long-term effects on employee morale, efficiency and communications.

But we can help you find your way back. Bellevue Consulting's customized Culture Alignment Workshops offer companies a chance to refine their intended values, identify the challenges they face, and get back on track with what makes their culture unique.

Our workshops include:

- Exercises to clarify and articulate your values, and to identify the pitfalls and tradeoffs that will challenge them
- Collaborative strategies to create and maintain your intended culture
- Post workshop report

With only 15 minutes of prework for attendees, you will emerge from the workshop with eyes open to the challenges defining your culture. Your leadership team will be ready to realign your talk with your walk, reengage your employees, and recapture lost efficiencies.

"Belle got us to open up on important topics right away and helped us reconnect with what makes our team special. Her workshop would be valuable for any growing team."

- Jake Keteyian, Vincere Health
