Philosophy and Goals

The Sideout Volleyball Club strives to provide an environment that allows young women athletes to learn, improve and develop their individual and team volleyball skills. This occurs through coaching instruction, practice and competition. We teach sound fundamentals as well as age appropriate skills, strategy and game tactics. It is also our goal to field consistently competitive teams.

Sideout has sent many athletes on to the collegiate level where they have played at the NCAA Division I, II, & III levels, in addition to NAIA and Community Colleges programs.

U12 Coaches

Haley Vick

Haley takes over as the head coach of the Sideout U12 program for the 2020 season. Haley previously ran the Sideout U11 Developmental program and has also assisted with older teams, most recently as the U14 assistant coach in 2019. Haley graduated from Whitworth University in 2017 where she played middle as a four year member of the volleyball team. Haley has strong coaching experience with both NBC Camps and Sideout. Haley brings incredible passion, energy and an extensive knowledge of the game to any team she coaches.

Kiann Sakach

Kiann returns to the Sideout Volleyball club for the 2020 season. In 2018 she was an assistant coach for the Developmental program and the Sideout U16 team. Last fall she was the coach of the 6th grade team at Northwest Christian school. Kiann has played both setter and libero and played club volleyball from U12s through U18. As a high school student she coached a boys' club team in Arizona. Kiann is finishing up her general requirements courses prior to beginning nursing school.

Brittany Herrman

Brittany grew up in Novato, California where she played club volleyball for 10 years, first for the NOMAR Volleyball Club and later, for the Marin Juniors. She was the head coach of a 13s team for the NOMAR Volleyball Club last year and prior to that assisted with 14's and 13's teams for 2 years. Brittany is finishing her degree at Eastern Washington University after moving to Spokane.
