Philosophy and Goals

The Sideout Volleyball Club strives to provide an environment that allows young women athletes to learn, improve and develop their individual and team volleyball skills. This occurs through coaching instruction, practice and competition. We teach sound fundamentals as well as age appropriate skills, strategy and game tactics. It is also our goal to field consistently competitive teams.

Sideout has sent many athletes on to the collegiate level where they have played at the NCAA Division I, II, & III levels, in addition to NAIA and Community College programs.
