Dear NJPEC Members,

It has been too long since I've seen you all, and though I may not see the entirety of your faces behind a surgical mask, it is with great pleasure to share that NJPEC is active and planning events for the remainder of 2021!

We're being creative this year—I've asked our board to think outside the box, because we're not living under the same conditions as we had back in 2019. 2020 was a year of quarantining, remote working, Zoom calls, and social distancing from friends and family, and we asked ourselves--what do you want from NJPEC in 2021? Our board deliberated, bounced ideas off of each other, and came up with events that could allow our members to get out, have fun, but most importantly—stay safe.

The board of NJPEC is determined to hold events safely, and within state and federal guidelines. The safety of our members is paramount to us having any in-person events, and therefore we've concluded that our 2021 events will take place outside, where we can maintain social distancing, in Spring, Summer, and early Fall. We'll continue to be mindful of CDC recommendations, and will follow all protocols that the venues for our events maintain, and we'll relay them to you.

On another note, we're also going to keep you informed and kept current through industry articles and interviews, posted to our website, to be conducted by our board, with our members, sponsors, past scholarship winners, and professionals that will keep you engaged in our packaging industry. We want to know—how have you been, and we're certain that members want to know that you're doing well. Feel free to write to us, and we'll be happy to update our membership with the news you're providing.

We're eager to announce our 2021 events. Please check our website at www.NJPEC.com for all the latest, and be sure to "follow us" on LinkedIn (<https://www.linkedin.com/company/njpec/about/>)

From the entire NJPEC board, please continue to be safe and we look forward to seeing you at our events in the months to come.

Sincerely,

Jesse Fischbein
President, NJPEC
