Scholar's Spotlight: Chloe Dutreuli

Viner Scholar Chloe is a Criminal Justice student at Florida Atlantic University. She was able to participate in a police ride along in November for a class project. She accompanied a police officer, with five years of experience during his night shift. They went to different areas in Deerfield. The calls ranged from disorderly conduct to more serious offenses. Each call was different and they never knew what to expect until they arrived. "Overall, I really enjoyed going on my first ride along. I would love to go on more in different cities and compare the differences among each. The ride along also allowed me to receive first hand experience on the role of a police officer. I am really excited to take more courses and explore career opportunities in my field."
