

ORLEANS RAILROAD.—Owing to the energy shown by the officers and directors of this company, the double track on Broad street and Grand Route St. John is completed. In consequence of this wise improvement, the line of this company is now the shortest from Canal street to the Fair Grounds. The cars run without change as far as the turning-table, opposite the central gate of the Fair Grounds, fronting on Savage street, between the third and fourth building, a few steps from the stand. The Orleans Railroad cars start, without interruption, from the Clay Statue, corner of St. Charles and Canal streets.
