Leadership Development Training

Food & Drug Administration (FDA)

Lead instructor for the mid-level (GS12-13) FDA workforce at the Silver Spring, MD location. Led the successful discussions and training from the topic "Becoming a Person of Influence," designed to deliver timely and strategic leadership principles that equips the next generation of leaders to be effective and efficient in the fulfillment of their day-to-day management.

Keynote Speaker

Anne Arundel Medical Center

Delivered Keynote Address before 230 medical professionals at the annual Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Awards Luncheon. From the topic "Put Your Dream to the Test", successfully encouraged and motivated the audience to achieve their goals, aspirations and dreams through practical application.

Coaching and Mentoring

Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU)

Since 2012, serves as a core leader and mentor to over 200 undergraduate students at the annual African-American Alumni Mentoring Circle. Successfully facilitates, coaches and mentors a diversity of students on career choices, interviewing skills, professional decorum and workplace dynamics. Presents scholarship awards and other recognitions based upon individual merit.

FDA

Upon review of the written evaluations, Kevin Johnson's facilitation of the "Becoming a Person of Influence" seminar for our mid-level leaders at FDA revealed an 85%-plus "strongly agree" that all goals, objectives, desired outcomes, and Johnson's teaching style, were exemplary. This course is a key component of Co-Hort 1 as we roll out a new leadership curriculum for our employees nationwide. We are pleased to have Johnson on our faculty.

- G. Avery Wilson, Th.D., Senior Advisor, FDA University

Anne Arundel Medical Center

The keynote address given by Kevin Johnson at our Martin Luther King, Jr. Day was inspirational, thought-provoking and motivational. Johnson inspired us with the words of Dr. King regarding using love to combat the effects of injustice and using our God-given talents to "do something" rather than idly standing by. He gave us practical ways to organize our thoughts, set priorities and establish clear goals. When Johnson concluded his presentation, I felt encouraged that even in my small way in my community I can make a significant difference.

- Nia Wright, MSN MHA RN CNOR, Senior Nursing Director, Surgical Services, Co-chair, Cultural Diversity and Workplace Advocacy Initiative, Anne Arundel Medical Center

VCU

Kevin Wayne Johnson has been a pillar to the VCU African-American Alumni Council's Mentoring Circle. This is an organic mentorship program where VCU alumni volunteer their time touching the lives and future professional aspirations of current VCU collegiates. Johnson has offered his skills and talents informing potential and active mentees in areas such as life skills management, networking, and preparing for interviews. He additionally lends his talents toward mentees' self-advocating skills, and generally how to persevere as one strives to identify, meet, and exceed personal goals. Johnson is well suited for this type of engagement because of his character, conduct, personal habits, and reputation which are all beyond reproach.

- Rodney A. Harry, President, VCU Alumni's African-American Alumni Council
