

3-14-20 Update on Shows at ProArts in Light of COVID-19

ProArts Playhouse would like to issue the following notice in light of the recent attached advisory from the State of Hawaii with regard to COVID-19:

We will be following the County's example and continuing with scheduled activities throughout this weekend including our two remaining performances of our current show, Out of Order. All other future performances are postponed for the time being. We will continue to follow CDC guidelines and sanitize all public areas of the theater before and after each performance, including the armrests of each and every seat.

We will continue to closely monitor the situation with COVID-19 and all advisories from the County, State, and Federal governments. When the authorities have determined that the time is right, we will reopen our doors. Although we are unable to say with 100% certainty what the outcome will be with each event or performance, it is our intention to reopen with at least one more weekend of performances of Out of Order and to simply postpone rather than cancel all other currently scheduled events.

Throughout this week, we will be contacting everyone who currently has tickets to any future ProArts performances to offer a credit toward a postponed or other future show or a refund, if you so choose. We would also greatly appreciate it if you would consider treating the funds from your cancelled ticket as a donation to the theater, particularly as this pandemic may have a serious impact on the financial health of arts organizations and theater professionals over the coming months. We would be delighted to accept your support and send you a donation receipt.

You can access more information about COVID-19's impact on Hawaii and sign up for email updates at <https://health.hawaii.gov/news/covid-19-updates/>.

If you choose to attend one of the two remaining shows this weekend, please be aware that you will be entering an indoor public performance space where a potential health risk does exist. Please remember the following:

- If you have a fever or are not feeling well, please stay home. Seriously.
- Cover your coughs and sneezes with your bent elbow. (We recommend NOT using that elbow to greet people thereafter.) Go with a friendly shaka!
- Wash your hands for at least 20 seconds. We know it feels long, but remember Mr. Rogers letting a minute pass on live TV.
- Don't touch your face. (It's fine just the way it is!)

In the coming weeks, we will be sending updates and links to ways to stay entertained and involved in ProArts from the comfort of your own home. Thank you as always for your support and for being a part of the ProArts Ohana!

With aloha,

Lin McEwan (Thieman), Executive Director

COVID-19 DAILY UPDATE MARCH 13, 2020

Hawaii Department of Health Guidance on Public Events and Group Gatherings

To protect the public's health and wellbeing, the Hawa'i Department of Health is recommending large, crowded gatherings or public events that include 100 people or more be postponed or canceled. These events include concerts and conferences, as well as professional, college and school sporting events. The Department of Health is recommending smaller gatherings held in enclosed spaces that do not allow social distancing also be postponed or canceled or held virtually. When possible, attendees should be no fewer than two-arms-length or six feet apart. Elderly adults and those with underlying health conditions who are at a greater risk for COVID-19 or respiratory illnesses should avoid attending large public gatherings.

Clarification of COVID-19 Test Candidates

COVID-19 testing is not intended for all residents. Testing those who are well or at low risk for exposure is not an efficient use of resources. To ensure judicious use of resources, healthcare providers statewide are triaging and determining if their patients meet the criteria to initiate COVID-19 testing. Patients must have a physician's order to be tested.

This week, the Department of Health issued a medical advisory with risk assessment and management guidelines to healthcare providers to identify patients who are most at risk for COVID-19 infection. Those considered at high risk are those who have been living with an intimate partner, or is caring for a person who has been confirmed positive for COVID-19.

Those who are at medium risk are those who have traveled to an affected country or state, as determined by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, within the past 14 days; has had intimate contact with a confirmed symptomatic person; or has had close contact with a symptomatic person without precautions.

Testing at the DOH State Laboratories Division is being conducted on Persons Under Investigation who are at high or medium risk.

Persons who are considered low risk are those who have been in the same indoor environment such a planes and restaurants without having close contact with a confirmed symptomatic person.

The Queen's Medical Center – Punchbowl

The Queen's Medical Center- Punchbowl has established a triage center. A tent has been set up to conduct COVID-19 testing from 10 am to 6 pm daily. Only symptomatic people at risk will be tested. The tent is only for those with mild to moderate flu-like symptoms. Patients that need any significant level of care will be triaged into the main emergency room. Other healthcare facilities, including those on the neighbor islands, also have plans to establish similar COVID-19 testing sites.

Community Surveillance Testing Program

The first samples collected from the community surveillance program are being tested this week. The program, announced earlier this week, is being conducted in collaboration with the CDC. The tests are being conducted at the Department of Health's State Laboratories Division.

The Department of Health will be testing samples from patients with respiratory symptoms that have been collected by doctor's offices and outpatient settings statewide. The results will enable the state to identify and notify persons who test positive and take additional actions to try to stop the spread of the virus. The Department of Health will contact the provider and patient in the event of a positive result and provide further guidance.

Matson Continuing Operations Without Interruption

Matson issued the following statement today in response to concerns circulating in Hawaii about service disruption: All Matson operations continue uninterrupted. Matson intends to maintain all service schedules as normal with three arrivals a week to Honolulu and twice a week calls to each neighbor island port. Matson is committed to taking all appropriate steps to ensure the continuation of services, including the deployment of reserve vessels if necessary to continue meeting the needs of our customers. Matson is monitoring developments closely and ensuring compliance with all United States Coast Guard and local, federal and international government reporting and prevention directives for maritime operations. Matson also has frequent and regular communication with the United States Coast Guard and Hawaii State Department of Transportation regarding commercial port operations.
