

Writing in the Wild

Friday, July 17th, 2020
10:00 a.m. – 1:30 p.m.

Co-sponsored by the National Writing Project at Rider University and the Friends for the Abbott Marshlands

Treat yourself to a day spent writing with us in the inspiring Abbott Marshlands!

We will meet at the beautiful Tulpehaking Nature Center, where we will read favorite nature writing, share techniques for getting started, and then move out into the trails to write.

Bring a lunch.

Water, snacks, and supplies (pen and journal) will be provided. However, feel free to bring a favorite pen and journal if you have them.

Free

Directions and information about the Tulpehaking Nature Center and Abbott Marshlands at www.abbottmarshlands.org

Click here to register: <http://bit.ly/2W4FkvF> or visit www.nwprider.org

Questions? Contact Dr. Carol Brown at brown@rider.edu.