

ESTATE PLANNING BASICS

By: Jennifer N. Sawday, Esq., Partner at TLD LAW

A QUICK PRIMER FOR CALIFORNIA RESIDENTS

This is not legal advice, but information to help you understand how estate planning works and why you should consult with an attorney regarding your estate plan.

4 KEY LEGAL DOCUMENTS

REVOCABLE
LIVING TRUST

1

A Revocable Living Trust avoids probate when your home and other assets are vested in your Trust. You select who will be in charge and set the rules for distribution of your assets.

POUR OVER
WILL

2

A Will is the preferred document to nominate guardians for your children. A Will does not avoid probate, so a Trust is also executed at the same time. The Will functions to “pour over” assets to your Trust.

DURABLE
POWER OF ATTORNEY

3

A Durable Power of Attorney and Advance Health Care Directive allow you nominate loved ones to make financial and medical decisions on your behalf in the event you are alive, but not well (i.e., car accident, medical incapacity or not aging well).

ADVANCE
HEALTHCARE

4

You select your agents instead of the court making the choices for you.

TRUST VERSUS PROBATE

ALL REVOCABLE TRUSTS

- Can be changed or updated during lifetime
- Avoids probate when fully funded with assets

MARITAL TRUSTS This is revocable, too

- For married couples with larger estates, usually between $10 to $22m; for those with children from prior relationships; or if this is not your first marriage
- Requires an allocation of trust assets to an A, B and/or C subtrusts on the death of the first spouse. Allows for estate tax savings and preservation of assets for the intended beneficiaries of the first spouse to die.

LEGACY TRUSTS This is revocable, too

- For larger estates, allows assets to remain in trust with permissive use of assets by beneficiaries and assets can then pass to next generation in trust.

PROBATE EXPENSES

Probate costs add up quickly:

$465 filing fee to open estate

$200 to $1,200 to run legal notice

$465 interim fee to sell real estate with court approval

$75 to $1,000 appraisal fees or more

$465 filing fee to close estate

Minimum costs: $1,500 or more

Plus statutory fees /commissions for personal representative and attorneys based on inventoried estate:

4% of the first $100k

3% of the next $100k

2% of the next $100k to $800k ...

See Probate Code Sec. 10800 et. seq.

An estate inventoried at $500k can incur $26,000 in statutory fees and commissions!
