

To our customers and partners,

We appreciate your continued business during this crisis and look forward to supporting you through these unprecedented circumstances.

During this outbreak, DDS Wireless group of companies will continue to provide services and support for as long as we can while conforming to the appropriate local and country health guidelines. This includes working with our customers and partners to help reduce the negative impact Covid-19 Virus may have on their operations and business.

With regards to our employee's safety, we are complying with the regulations appropriate to the country of operations and to this end our employees are either working from home or, where allowed (and for specific responsibilities) a combination of home and office. Our offices are not accepting visitors at this time and our employees are not travelling to visit customers and/or suppliers; we are being both mindful and respectful of the global need for physical distancing.

The majority of our operational technical support is by telephone and internet. For hardware repairs and servicing, we are continuing to provide this service but would ask that you understand that there might be a slight delay in our turnaround because of the strict incoming and outgoing sterilization process that we have adopted. We are committed to continuing operations as close to normal as possible given the quickly changing environment.

Please stay safe and do not hesitate to contact us with any questions that you may have.
