5. Access and Diversity

Public Waldorf Schools work to increase diversity and access to all sectors of society.

- Public Waldorf schools respond to unique demands and cultures in a wide range of locations in order to provide maximum access to a diverse range of students. Schools work towards ensuring that students do not experience discrimination in admission, retention, or participation.
- Public Waldorf schools and teachers have the responsibility to creatively address the developmental needs of the students with the most inclusive possible approaches for all learners.
- The Public Waldorf program and curriculum is developed by the school to reflect its student population.
