Plate Tectonics is the unifying theory of geology. It tells how the surface of the earth is formed and changes.

The surface of the earth is broken up into large ________________ and these pieces of crust are moving: pushing into one another, sliding past one another, and pulling apart from one another.