A Visit to a Zoo

It was a bright sunny morning in October when over class went to see the Islamabad zoo. Our class teacher bought tickets at the gate. First of all we went to the duck-pound. A large number of ducks of various colours swam in the water. A little distance from the duck-pound was the aquarium where small fishes of various kinds were kept in glass tanks. I had never seen such beautiful and multi coloured fishes before.

Then we went to the enclosure where monkeys were kept. They ran and jumped and chase one another in their large cage. We were very eager to see lions. So, our teacher led us to their enclosure. We could only one lion strolling in the open. The others was resting in their dens. As we stood watching the beautiful and powerful animals the Lion begin to roar. I felt a little afraid.

It is not possible to describe all that we saw in the zoo. The zoo is spread over a vast area and has hundreds of animals from small sparrows to huge elephants. I really enjoyed the visit to the zoo.
