The Fox & the Grapes

A Fox one day spied a beautiful bunch of ripe grapes hanging from a vine trained along the branches of a tree. The grapes seemed ready to burst with juice, and the Fox's mouth watered as it gazed longingly at them.

The bunch hung from a high branch, and the Fox had to jump for it. The first time it jumped it missed it by a long way. So fox walked off a short distance and took a running leap at it, only to fall short once more. Again and again it tried, but in vain.

Now fox sat down and looked at the grapes in disgust. "What a fool I am," it said. "Here I am wearing myself out to get a bunch of sour grapes that are not worth gaping for." And off he walked very, very scornfully.
