Description

Please join the 2021 FLCI: Talking Black in America, Thursday, April 22, 3-5:00 pm

About the film and filmmaker: Talking Black in America addresses African American English and language-based discrimination. We have invited the filmmaker, Dr. Walt Wolfram, to screen this film (1 hour), discuss it (30 minutes), and engage in a Q&A (30 minutes).

Bio: Dr. Wolfram is the William C. Friday Distinguished University Professor at North Carolina State University. He is a leader in the study of social and ethnic dialects, and has pioneered the study of urban African American English, supporting the legitimacy of African American English as a systematic language system.
