

DANGER...RUNNY GLAZES

Runny glazes ruin pots and damage kiln shelves!

Please do not use runny glazes on the outside of pots. The glaze runs off the pots and onto the kiln shelves. See the pictures above. The pots are ruined and the kiln shelves get damaged. The kiln shelves are very expensive. Some of the shelves cost $250 each. Even if I fire your pots on cookies, the cookies get ruined.

If I see a runny glaze on the outside of your pot I will not fire it. Runny glazes are marked on the bucket lids and also on the shelf where the samples are. Runny glazes may be used on the inside of pots and the lips of tall pots. They may not be used on the lips of short pots and the bottom half of any pot. Ask for help if you need it.
