

Sharon C. Jenkins

The Authorpreneur Coach

The Master Communicator's Writing Services

Sharon C. Jenkins is the Inspirational Principal for The Master Communicator's Writing Services. Her business provides writing and coaching services to small businesses, nonprofits, and authors. Her professional experience ranges from working as an editor for a major minority communications and marketing company to being an author's virtual coach. Her most recent project is the Authorpreneur Coach Certification Program for coaches, consultants, and seasoned authors who would like to add an additional revenue stream to their exiting offerings.

Sharon started her journey as a poet, graduated to a playwright, and is now a best-selling and award-winning author and podcaster. Her solo projects comprise the following titles: Beyond the Closet Door, Christ's Rescue from Abuse, Authorpreneurship: The Business Start-Up Manual for Authors and a host of e-books tailored for authors on such topics as writing, marketing, time management, and publishing. Her most recent print release is a compilation titled, Are you a Super Author? This book has the "How to Get It Done" stories of 14 seasoned "Authorpreneurs" loaded with tips from their journey.

She intentionally designed it to be a literary inspiration for the aspiring author interested in starting a business in writing. Sharon has been a featured blogger on Huffington Post, The Good Men Project, Self-Published Author, Afrovibesradio.com, and Book Marketing Tools. She also hosts her radio show Luminance on Houston-based Galaxy Gospel Radio. Sharon is also a member of the award-winning Brilliant Women in Film.

Dr. Rickey L. Edmonds

Superintendent

Lincoln County (GA) School District

Dr. Rickey L. Edmond has held many titles throughout his years in education. He has been called science teacher, assistant principal, principal, coach, assistant superintendent, and now Superintendent.

Prior to Washington County, Dr. Edmond was employed by the Lincoln County (GA) School District for as the Assistant Superintendent of Federal Programs and Special Education.

His major accomplishments included implementing a highly effective new teacher induction program, supporting the district's STEM/STEAM certification, supporting compliant IDEA practices for students with disabilities and providing Title I funding to principals and teachers with a specific focus of improving college and career readiness. He worked with the Superintendent on School Safety and to advance the District's Cyber Security initiative.

Dr. Edmond completed his Bachelor's degree with a major in biology from Presbyterian College. He received an Education Add-on from Brewton Parker College and obtained both a Master's degree and Specialist's degree from Georgia College & State University in Administration and Supervision. He earned his Doctorate from Walden University in Teaching and Learning.