SGA Talent's Financial Services Practice represents a considerable part of our recruitment research business. As one of our strongest practice within the SGA Talent organization, we continue to boast that our most junior team member, on this team, has 16 years with us. Our extensive experience allows us to continuously meet the needs of our clients in this demanding and very dynamic space. Most of our experts have acquired their knowledge by learning from our clients and being in the trenches, creating organization charts for our clients in need of the hard to find, skilled talent, often not found on the Internet.

Since all of our recruiting professionals have moved from our recruitment research team into recruiting, our clients reap the benefits of deep industry knowledge gained by having this type of experience. With access to this experience, along with having a proven recruitment research team available, our recruiting efforts often times have momentum right out of the gate resulting in outstanding pipeline development, often times within the first few weeks from the kick-off meeting. We give our financial services clients the recruiting competitive edge needed to recruit these highly qualified, skilled players every financial institution wants to employ.

Since 1990 we have continued to build, maintain and sustain many networks in this industry. Our work helps us stay ahead of the many changes and challenges this industry continues to face.

Let our experience, knowledge and team help you find the best talent you deserve
