

TC Restaurant Group Manager Josh Edington presents the Vanderbilt Hospital nursing staff and managers 40 meals, slices of chocolate cake and flower arrangements in appreciation of the mothers in healthcare who are working front lines amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

TC Restaurant Group honors 40 healthcare moms

FGL House, Luke's 32 Bridge and Jason Aldean's Kitchen and Rooftop Bar give to mothers in healthcare amid COVID pandemic

TC Restaurant Group honored Vanderbilt mothers on the front lines this Mother's Day with a "comfort food package," flowers and seven-layer chocolate cake for lunch on Friday, May 8. Forty women were honored during that afternoon including nurses, doctors, physicians, radiologists, and medical assistants.

TC Restaurant Group employees were on hand to deliver the care packages and express thanks to the staff for the extra work they are putting in this Mother's Day amid the COVID-19 pandemic.

TC Restaurant Group's Assistant Director of Marketing Adriana Orsini said the group wanted to recognize those who were on the front lines, and may not get the chance for a conventional Mother's Day celebration.

"These women are juggling a massive amount of tasks right now. When you take into consideration that they are working essential jobs on the front lines in a high stress industry while also managing the tasks of a family, homeschooling and day to day duties."

She said while TC Restaurant Group would typically celebrate Mother's Day with brunch features in their dining rooms, "This year is different and we wanted to make sure we were still able to do something special for those mothers who are working so hard. We thought it was important to give them some recognition and remind them of the communities' appreciation for their work."

TC Restaurant Group worked with "Feed The Front Lines

"This year is different and we wanted to make sure we were still able to do something special for those mothers who are working so hard."

who attended Vanderbilt. FTFLL is a non-profit organization working to support local restaurants and restore jobs while feeding front line workers and people in need during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Ben Schecter, one of the founders of FTFLL in Nashville, spoke out on behalf of the organization, "Feed the Front Line Nashville is grateful and honored to partner with TC Restaurant Group to continue to help our local restaurants and healthcare workers during this COVID-19 crisis. Thanks to TC Restaurant Group's generous support, Feed the Front Line will be able to donate 40 meals. Thank you to the TC Restaurant Group for their tremendous generosity!"

Flowers were donated by FLWR SHOP so that each mother received a small arrangement along with a comforting meal and a slice of decadent chocolate cake.

TC Restaurant Group has also been vigilant in other causes, including veteran and armed forces support, cancer research and awareness events, and most recently relief efforts following the spring tornadoes in Nashville and raising 47 units of blood on their Blood Drive on Broadway for COVID-19 relief.

Top: Meals donated included slow roasted brisket with TC Restaurant Group BBQ sauce, fresh green beans and Yukon Gold mashed potatoes. Bottom: Each meal was accompanied by a slice of 7-layer chocolate cake.

TC Restaurant Group Regional Chef Rob Moore carves brisket in preparation of 40 meals to mothers working the front lines.

